Maine Ex-Deputy Sheriff CARROLL INDICTED AS SLAYER In Dwyer Death Tour Case

SOUTH PARIS, Me., June 24—Ex-Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll was indicted today charged with the murder of Dr. James G. Littlefield in the infamous Maine "tour of death" case last October.

He played an active part in the investigation of the crime with which he now stands accused and for which Paul Dwyer, 18, is serving a life sentence.

Carroll is the father of Dwyer's school sweetheart, Barbara Carroll, and is now in jail awaiting trial on a morals charge involving her.

Dwyer originally confessed the crime after arrest in New Jersey at the wheel of a car containing the bodies of Dr. and Mrs. Littlefield. After going to prison he repudiated his confession and claimed he "took the rap" for his sweetheart's father. The case was secretly reopened and placed before the Oxford County grand jury today which returned the indictment. Pictures and other stories on Page 2.

Lay Murder To Ex-Deputy

SOUTH PARIS, Me., June 24—Former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll of South Paris was today indicted for the murder of Dr. James G. Littlefield.

For that same murder, to which he pleaded guilty, 18-year-old Paul N. Dwyer is now serving a life sentence in Thomaston State Prison.

After being committed to the prison, he repudiated previous confessions and told a new story of the crime, naming Carroll as the actual killer.

Maine state authorities, after renewed investigation, reopened the case, and presented fresh evidence to the Oxford county grand jury.

ONLY DOCTOR'S DEATH

That jury returned today's indictment against Carroll.

No indictment was returned today in the murder of Mrs. Littlefield, the doctor's wife, nor had Dwyer been tried for this second slaying.

FRANCIS M. CARROLL

MRS. LYDIA LITTLEFIELD

Her body was found in the Littlefield automobile, where the doctor's body was jammed into the car trunk.

Young Dwyer was asleep in the car when he was arrested, Oct. 16, 1937, at North Arlington, N. J.

"TOUR OF DEATH"

He allegedly confessed, at that time, to both killings, saying he had driven the bodies on an amazing and grusome "tour of death" back and forth through New England, New York and New Jersey.

Carroll, indicted today for Dr. Littlefield's murder, is a World War veteran and the father of four children.

FATHER OF SWEETHEART

As a deputy sheriff of Oxford County he was active in the investigation of the Littlefield slayings and assisted in keeping young Dwyer in custody prior to the latter's trial.

BARBARA CARROLL

Carroll is the father of pretty, dark-haired young Barbara Carroll, one-time sweetheart of Paul Dwyer.

PAUL DWYER

Several weeks ago Carroll was arrested on a morals charge affecting his daughter, Barbara, and was held in bail of $20,000, which he was unable to provide.

He was taken from the nearby Oxford County jail to court today for arraignment on the murder indictment.

He entered a plea of not guilty.

In anticipation of today's indictment which came as a sequel to young Dwyer's changed story, Carroll had legal counsel present.

Dwyer's new account of the Littlefield slayings—his fifth version of the double crime—was set forth in a 17-page statement he signed in Thomaston Prison.

According to the statement, Carroll, not Dwyer, killed both Dr. Littlefield and Mrs. Littlefield.

Dwyer allegedly said in the statement that Carroll borrowed his belt to use in the double crime and that Carroll persuaded him, by threats, first to try to dispose of the bodies, then to shoulder responsibility for the slayings.

End of 'Death Tour'

STORY CHANGED—What seemed to be an out-and-out story of double murder came with the discovery of the bodies of Dr. and Mrs. James Littlefield. Paul Dwyer confessed. Now, he has changed his story, being brought from prison to South Paris, Me., court. Above shows Mrs. Littlefield's body in car.

Amazing Crime Dwyer Detailed

SOUTH PARIS, Me., June 24—It was on the early morning of October 16, 1937, that authorities first learned of the brutal double slaying, of which Dr. and Mrs. James G. Littlefield were victims and in which crime former Deputy Sheriff Carroll was indicted here today.

The twofold crime was revealed when police of North Arlington, N. J., found young Paul Dwyer asleep in an automobile which had been pulled off the highway and parked in the darkness of a vacant lot.

One officer took the boy to the station house for routine questioning, while the other searched the car, which bore Maine license plates.

Hardly had the examination of Dwyer at the station begun than the officer who had remained at the auto came dashing in.

"There's a dead woman in your car, young fellow!" he shouted. "What have you to say to that?"

"ANOTHER BODY THERE"

As police told the story later, Dwyer was unshaken.

"Look in the trunk in back of the auto and you'll find another body," he allegedly said.

Investigation did, indeed, disclose the body of Dr. Littlefield, jammed into the trunk.

Mrs. Littlefield's body was on the floor of the auto, covered with a rug.

In young Dwyer's pocket was found $197. Also in his possession was a packet of burning love letters, bearing signatures which the boy at first identified as those of "a couple of girl friends, back home."

LOVE LETTERS TRACED

Some of the love letters were subsequently to be accorded great importance, as Maine authorities attempted to establish the motive which actuated the slayings.

But North Arlington police, that morning of Oct. 16, didn't bother to read young Dwyer's personal correspondence.

With two murdered persons' bodies and a mysteriously calm and boyish prisoner on their hands, investigating officers saw a lot of work ahead.

And the bizarre aspects of the double crime were multiplied when 18-year-old Paul Dwyer described the amazing "tour of death," in the course of which, he said, he had driven hundreds of miles back and forth across New England, New York and New Jersey.

During all that gruesome jaunt, Dr. Littlefield's body had been in the auto trunk, Dwyer said, but Mrs. Littlefield had first been alive and an unsuspecting passenger.

Later Dwyer killed Mrs. Littlefield, concealed her body under the rug and continued his drive, he said.

According to his first alleged confession, subsequently to be changed in many of its important details, he beat and choked Dr. Littlefield to death, Oct. 13, in a bathroom of the home here.

Dr. Littlefield had infuriated him by making slighting remarks about a South Paris girl, Dwyer told the Jersey police.

BEATEN AND CHOKED

Later, in a revised confession, Dwyer said the motive of the Dr. Littlefield slaying was robbery, but he didn't get as much money as he expected from the doctor, so he lured Mrs. Littlefield from her home and killed her, too, after persuading her to draw cash from the bank.

As he told the story first, however, Dwyer said he knocked Dr. Littlefield down and stunned him, then he hit him over the head with a hammer and finally choked him with a belt.

He then carried the doctor's body to the doctor's car and packed it in the trunk, Dwyer said.

TRAPPED HIS WIFE

Next morning, according to his story, he told Mrs. Littlefield the doctor had been in a fatal auto accident and had become a fugitive.

The doctor would need some money and assistance, Dwyer told the wife, according to his confession.

He said Mrs. Dwyer got the money and went with him in the doctor's car. They drove as far as Concord, N. H., Dwyer said, but Mrs. Littlefield was becoming increasingly suspicious. So they started back for South Paris.

On the way back Mrs. Littlefield was strangled. Exactly where the second killing took place has never been told.

Wright Wrong Guilty of Shooting At Wife

"CHOTTIE" CHESEBROUGH
Quarrel About Her

NEW HAVEN, Ct., June 24 (INS)—Superior Court Judge Edward J. Quinlan today found John B. Wright, 41-year-old wealthy Madison sportsman, guilty of simple assault and breach of the peace in connection with a shooting incident involving his wife, Katherine.

Judge Quinlan sentenced the gentleman farmer to three months in New Haven County jail and fined him $150 on the assault charge. A 30-day suspended sentence was meted out by the judge on the breach of the peace count.

Wright told newspapermen there was no chance for reconciliation with his wife.

"I will not contest her divorce action," he said. "There will be no reconciliation."

"And she won't get any alimony," he added.

'Wind' Stars Pick Norma, Clark Gable

HOLLYWOOD, June 24 (AP)—The breeziest guessing game in movie history—who's going to play who in "Gone With the Wind"—had an official answer today.

Norma Shearer, Canadian-born and Hollywood-reared, will be the Southern spitfire, Scarlett O'Hara, when the cameras start rolling late in the year (this year).

And that gentlemanly rascal of the old south in Margaret Mitchell's long piece about Civil War times, Rhett Butler, will be enacted by Ohio's Clark Gable, who has been down south.

Both Gable and Miss Shearer were informed yesterday that the contracts, giving them the year's best roles, will be signed any minute.

OFTEN MENTIONED

Miss Shearer often was mentioned for the part, but David Selznick, who bought the rights for a mere $50,000, wanted an unknown. He knew that if he could find the right newcomer, he'd have a star when it was all over.

Selznick always wanted Gable, the fans' choice, but M.G.M. refused to loan him unless Selznick agreed to release the picture through M.G.M. "The Wind" will be an M.G.M. picture in name and cast, although Selznick, who operates his own successful plant, will be in actual charge.

When he announced the film, many, many months ago, the public took over the casting. There was such a tremendous interest in the novel that everyone who read it, or any chapter of it, knew just who should be in the movie.

"GONE" ON ITS LIPS

For months Hollywood had "gone" on its lips. Every day, we here heard, somebody else was being considered—or, more impressively, "tested"—for the main parts. Among those actually tested were Janet Gaynor, Tallulah Bankhead, Katharine Hepburn, Paulette Goddard, two newcomers, Stenographer Margaret Tallichet and Manicurist Arleen Whelan, as well as two or three Georgia belles.

Fredric March, Spencer Tracy, Leslie Howard and Errol Flynn—certainly a variety of looks and personalities — were among the "Rhetts" considered or tested.

Mental Waves To Pelt Voters In Race

SHAWNEE, Okla., June 24 (AP)—Mrs. Ruth M. Johnson will depend on a thought wave campaign in her bid for office as state commissioner of charities and corrections.

No campaign posters, no literature, no platform will be used, said the tall, brown-eyed mother of three, explaining:

"These telepathic messages, which will be sent in a concentration period of only 30 minutes each day, will concern a program of rehabilitation."

A profound believer in mental telepathy, the former school teacher said she had no set time for her thought "broadcast" but found she concentrated better upon arising, usually about 5:30 a. m.

Of her campaign, Mrs. Johnson said:

"I use my name in a definite appeal to voters very much like a speaker in an oral campaign. I emphasize my deep interest in social service work and in being of what service I can to humanity."

She has six opponents in the July 12 Democratic primary, including a "famous name," Mae West—no relative of the movie star.

Judge Who Parted Thousands to Quit

RENO, Nev., June 24 (AP)—Judge Thomas F. (Barney) Moran, a kindly Irishman who observes his seventieth birthday today, has decided to retire after granting more divorces than have been given by any jurist in the history of this "divorce capital."

Paradoxically, he has also grown famous as "the marrying judge." More than 8000 couples are married here each year and for a goodly number of them "Barney" Moran officiates.

For 28 years, Judge Moran has presided in one of the two departments of Washoe County district court, ruling on thousands of divorce, criminal and other cases.

The jurist says he will resign effective next December 20. In poor health during recent weeks, he wants to spend the remainder of his life in retirement with his second wife, to whom he was married only a few years ago. She had been a clerk in his court for many years.

NO DIVORCES FOR HIM

Despite the many divorces he has granted to others, Judge Moran is a firm believer in marriage. His previous marriage lasted 29 years—until the death of his first wife in 1934.

His homely philosophy of divorce and marriage is expressed in a typical statement:

"There is no hard and fast rule by which divorce may be avoided. It is the little things that happen in every-day life that lead to trouble. People should be intelligent enough to overlook the little sources of discord and forget them. When that is done, the marriage should be lasting."

"However," he adds, "once a wife and husband decide to separate, they are really divorced before they reach the courts. The formality of a legal decree should follow."

GAVE BABS DIVORCE

The judge is reticent about divorce cases he has experienced. Most of them have been tried in private. He has had hundreds of prominent persons in his court.

Probably the most notable divorce granted by Judge Moran was that of Barbara Hutton Mdivani, now the Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, from the late Prince Alexis Mdivani in 1935. He also has granted divorces to Jack Dempsey, from his first wife, actress Estelle Taylor, and to Ann Harding, film actress.

Joyride Turns To Grief Ride

BROCKTON, June 24 (AP)—A 15-year-old son of a Boston doctor enjoyed the thrill of a midnight joyride but came to grief early today after a five-mile police chase in which five shots were fired.

The boy, identified by police as Rogent G. Hill, son of Dr. Robert J. Hill, was taken into custody by Police Chief Oliver L. Graham of Avon only after he had driven into a dead-end street at the direction of three girl passengers who were frightened by what Graham estimated as an 85-mile-an-hour chase.

Chief Graham said young Hill had offered to drive the girls home to Brockton when he met them in Boston and had taken his father's car after the latter had retired for the night.

Robert will appear next Tuesday in juvenile court on charges of being delinquent and of driving without a license and failing to stop for a police officer.

Japs Ban U. S. Court in China

SHANGHAI, June 24 (INS)—Japan, in a blow against treaty rights of the United States, Great Britain and other major foreign powers, today took over judicial as well as military control of the occupied areas in China.

Abolition of all extra-territorial rights for foreigners in Japanese-occupied districts was proclaimed by the Japanese official spokesman.

Under the principle of extra-territoriality, granted the United States following the Boxer uprising, America maintains her own courts in Shanghai and other principal cities, where American citizens are tried.

The spokesman's announcement, which is likely to bring protests, grew out of Wednesday's incident in which a Japanese sentry allegedly slapped an American missionary, Dr. J. C. Thompson.

Dr. Thompson said he was defending his ricksha coolie from a threatened beating by Japanese soldiers. The American consulate lodged a protest.

LONDON, June 24 (INS) — France today indirectly warned Japan that if Nipponese troops are placed on Hainan Island, off the south China coast, France likely will land an equally strong force there.

HONGKONG, June 24 (AP)— Japanese troops landed on the south China mainland today under a heavy protective barrage while Japanese planes extensively bombed Swatow, South China treaty port.

The landing was made from Namoa Island, 20 miles east of Swatow.

SHANGHAI, June 24 (AP)—The Japanese advance up the Yangtze river toward Hankow slowed to a snail's pace today as a result of severe fighting and an overflowing river.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (INS) —The American government will insist upon preservation of its rights of extra-territoriality in all of China, high state department officials firmly declared today.

Officials were profoundly shocked by news from China that Japan openly was stating that henceforth, in areas conquered by the Japanese army, the extra-territoriality rights guaranteed the United States by China would be summarily abolished.

Extra Congress Session Hinted by Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, June 24 (INS)—President Roosevelt intimated at his press conference today that tonight's "fireside chat" might contain some information of major importance to the nation.

Returning from Hyde Park, the President's first action was to receive the press. A reporter queried him about reports he might call a special session of Congress in the fall.

The questioner was admonished to wait until he heard tonight's speech for the answer.

The President announced that he was holding a conference later in the day with a group of government officials to determine the six men who will represent the government on the joint legislative and executive committee charged with investigating monopoly and monopolistic practices.

CONFER WITH PRESIDENT

Those who will meet with the chief executive are Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Secretary of Commerce Roper, Chairman Ferguson of the Federal Trade Commission, Acting Secretary of Labor McLaughlin, SEC Chairman Douglas and Assistant Attorney General Arnold.

Meanwhile, the President said he still was swamped with the work of passing on the mass of bills which Congress left him at the last minute. He had cleared his desk before arriving back in Washington but more than 200 measures still unacted upon immediately began pouring in from the various departments which had been studying them.

The wage sand hour bill and the railroad unemployment insurance bill have not yet come back to the White House, Mr. Roosevelt added.

[illegible] AWAY SUNDAY

Mr. Roosevelt said he would remain in Washington until Sunday afternoon and then depart for Wilmington, Del., where he will spend the night with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene du Pont, parents of the wife of his son, Franklin, Jr.

On Monday morning, the President said he would motor to the rock where they landed—he quickly interjected that by "They" he meant the Swedes and not duPonts—and deliver a speech in connection with the 300th anniversary of the arrival in the United States of the Swedes and the Finns.

Immediately after the Wilmington speech, the President will entrain for Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where he will watch the last two races of the intercollegiate regatta in which seven crews from the East and West are competing.

He also devoted considerable time to completing his radio address, which will be broadcast tonight over the NBC, CBS and Mutual networks at 10:30 p. m. daylight time.

The speech will be his twelfth "fireside chat" since he took office in 1933. It will give him his first opportunity since the start of the $3,753,000,000 spending-lending program to discuss formally the prospects for early gains in business and industry.

He probably will review the administration's "pump-priming" campaign, which got actively under way this week with approval of several batches of Public Works projects. PWA allocated $61,342,346 yesterday in loans and grants to states and municipalities, bringing total allotments to $139,156,974.

ICKES' PROPOSAL

Secretary Ickes, resuming his duties as PWA administrator after a European honeymoon, proposed that the agency be made permanent.

"The way we have started this program convinces me that we should always have a backlog of projects," he said, declaring it would permit quick action in any future depressions.

Tonight's speech will mark the beginning of a busy summer season for Roosevelt. In the next two weeks he is to make four out-of-town addresses and complete arrangements for a politically significant journey across the continent to San Francisco.

Faces Eviction, Turns to Flag

IN SAD PLIGHT—Mrs. Sadie Monssen and her daughter sadly talk over letter from HOLC telling them their home must be sold soon. They have been unable to keep up payments. She is wife of naval hero Lieut. Mons Monssen, who beat out battleship fire with his bare hands to avert explosion. Pleas for more time have failed to aid Mrs. Monssen.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—A little gray-haired widow of a naval hero sobbed today that she might wrap herself in an American flag and resist any government effort to oust her from her home.

In the same mail two weeks ago, she received two letters from the government.

One said they were naming a new destroyer in honor of her husband, Lieut. Mons Monssen, who beat out a fire with his bare hands on the battleship Missouri off Florida in 1904 and prevented a powder magazine explosion.

The other said the Federal Home Owners Loan Corporation intended to sell her little house in Brooklyn in foreclosure proceedings.

"I don't know where to turn," Mrs. Monssen sobbed. "Representative O'Toole appealed to the president's secretary and the Highlawn Taxpayers Association telegraphed to the President, but there has been no word—No word at all."

The HOLC reported she had been loaned $7118 in 1934, on which no principal, interest or tax payments had been made, and that a month ago the debt totalled $8270, on which she had offered to pay $420 a year. She gets a pension of $30 a month.

The HOLC said it would "certainly make every effort to help her find suitable living quarters," but she was not consoled.

Federal Aides Plan Protest to Farley on Layoff

Charging that work normally done by government departments here has been recently shifted to Baltimore, causing discharge of more than 100 employes in Boston, federal workers planned a protest today.

They said they would lay the situation before Postmaster-General James A. Farley, due here tomorrow to address a convention of Young Democrats.

The departments affected by the shift of work to Baltimore are those of social security, income tax and field division of internal revenue, according to complaints.

Those backing the protest to Postmaster-General Farley say the lay-offs are not due to lack of work.

There is more to be done than there was a year ago, they claim, but it is being passed along to Baltimore, to the disadvantage of employes here.

SEWER GRANT O. K.'D

The way was cleared today for a concrete sewer extension between Medford and East Boston through approval at Washington of a $2,025,000 grant by the Public Works Administration. Total estimated cost of construction is $4,500,000.

Kennedy Tells Hull Of Europe

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—Joseph P. Kennedy, United States Ambassador to Great Britain, conferred with Secretary Hull at the State Department today.

Kennedy reported to the Secretary on conditions in Great Britain and that government's attitude toward continental developments.

President Roosevelt, asked at his press conference today whether hhe could comment on a Wall Street report that Kennedy had returned with an Anglo-American agreement for further currency devaluation, said it was just another Wall Street rumor.

Five in Race To Preside Over Senate

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

On the eve of prorogation, the state Senate today turned its thoughts to the selection of a new Senate president today.

No less than five were mentioned in the field that is wide open through the decision of Senator Samuel H. Wragg of Needham to relinquish his post as presiding officer to run for sheriff of Norfolk County.

Today's boom seemed to lean toward Senator Jarvis Hunt of Attleboro, a Republican, who is practically assured of re-election to the upper branch for the 1939 session.

But sponsors are also in the field for others. A definite boom is on for Joseph R. Cotton of Lexington, who has been Republican leader of the Senate.

Senator Angier L. Goodwin of Melrose, who is presiding at the so-called "gift job" probe of the Unemployment Compensation Commission, is another who has many sponsors.

Others in the field are Senator Donald W. Nicholson of Wareham, considered the parliamentarian of the Senate, and Senator Arthur W. Hollis of Newton, whose work as a member of the Senate ways and means committee has been outstanding.

Supporters of Senator Hunt extol him as the young member who would be the logical "youth era" choice.

In the House, it seems still to be a contest between followers of Christian Herter of Back Bay and Charles W. Hedges of Quincy.

Runaway Has Court Ending

The story of two Roxbury runaways, 13 and 15 years old, hunted for two days through the swampy woods of north Vermont by a posse of 10 men and a sheriff, was told in Roxbury court today.

The two were wanted on charges of breaking into the Disciplinary School on Walnut avenue last week, but they fled their homes and went to the farm of one of their grandmothers.

She found they had run away, and Sheriff Olive E. Burgess of Chelsea, Vt., came to take them into custody. They slipped out a window and took to the woods, living for two days on berries.

Today one case was filed and one continued to June 30.

Quincy Police Hold 3 for Burglaries

Quincy police, with three Dorchester youths held for questioning, today investigated breaks into the homes of Alfred D. McLeod and Adrian VanGemert and the theft of $200 in jewelry from the houses.

Vets Take Slap At Gov. Hurley

NORTHAMPTON, June 24—A resolution, rapping Governor Hurley for alleged refusal to appoint veterans to the state unemployment compensation commission and for general evasion of civil service regulations in appointments to that body, was introduced here today at the 18th annual convention of the Massachusetts Department, Veterans of Foreign War.

Convention sessions began at White Eagle Hall today and will continue through Sunday. The Ladies Auxiliary, V. F. W., is also in joint convention at the Northampton State Armory. More than 5000 delegates are present for both conclaves.

MAYOR ABSENT

The convention started under rather unfavorable auspices when Mayor William H. Feiker of Northampton refused tonnnnnn to attend to tender the welcome of his municipality to the delegates. The official opening was delayed almost an hour to await the absent mayor.

It is believed Mayor Feiker snubbed the convention because, over his vigorous opposition, the delegates had won from the A. B. C. commission the privilege of having bars kept open an hour later than usual during their stay.

The resolution, scoring the governor, was laid before the resolutions committee by Joseph L. McGrath, past commander of Norfolk Council, V. F. W. council.

He also offered a resolution demanding payment of war debts from countries in Europe.

DEBATE TOMORROW

Winchendon post, V. F. W., submitted a resolution to force all motion picture companies from representing veterans as "rowdy" when they depict them on the screen. Another resolution would lift the tax on cigarettes sold to patients in veteran hospitals.

These and other resolutions, to be filed later in the day, will be reported out of committee for debate on the floor of the convention tomorrow.

State Commander Patrick S. O'Donnell of South Deerfield presided at the convention sessions today and Eleanor Delaney of Beverly, state commander of the auxiliary, occupied the chair in the armory.

Judge Logan's Home Looted

Burglars entered the home of Judge Edward L. Logan in East Broadway, South Boston, early today.

They jimmied a front window and apparently ransacked the house, Judge Logan being away on vacation.

Detectives and fingerprint experts were sent to the Logan home to investigate.

Judge Logan, an overseas war veteran of the Yankee Division, is presiding justice of South Boston court.

Baby's Cries Save Parents in Fire

WHITINSVILLE, June 24 (AP)—The crying of their infant daughter probably saved the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Plouffe today. They awakened to find their cottage a mass of flames.

Two Slug, Rob Man of $200

FRAMINGHAM, June 24—Surprised in the darkened doorway of his Hollis street home here today, Peter Gabelli, 50, proprietor of a Framingham Center cafe, was beaten over the head by two men and robbed of $200.

Police think the men were the same ones who two weeks ago attacked Merton Woodworth, farmer, as he left his car in his garage and made away with $400 Woodworth was carrying.

Gabelli had just left a taxicab and was inserting a key in the front lock when the men leaped on him from behind, striking him over the head with a blunt instrument.

Alaska Governor Bruised in Crash

Hurley-Council 'Parting' Seen

After months of amicable relations, Governor Hurley and his Republican-controlled Council today apparently reached the parting of the ways.

Their differences centered about the nomination of Judge John A. Costello, Lawrence Democrat, as Essex County probate judge.

In a clash, the council tabled the appointment only to have the governor suddenly table his earlier nomination of Judge Fred T. Field as chief justice of the Supreme Court, a nomination which was ready for confirmation.

Councillor Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., led the opposition to the Costello appointment, notifying the governor that following the recent appointment of Judge John V. Phelan, Democrat, as an Essex County probate judge it was expected that a Republican would be named to that court.

Hurley resubmitted his nomination of Costello and announced a meeting of the council for next Thursday, when the Field appointment again will come up.

Indict 15 More In Revere Probe

the jury named Mayor James M. O'Brien of Revere, Chief of Police Edward Tighe and two members of the local vice squad.

Coincident with the second report of the "blue ribbon" jury today was the surrender and arraignment of Thomas O'Connell of Athol, formerly of Albany, N. Y., who was one of the original 39 defendants.

He surrendered at the office of Attorney-General Paul A. Dever to Captain John A. Dorsey, State Police Sergeant Foley, Sergeant Joyce, attached to the office of District Attorney William J. Foley, and to Assistant Attorney-General John S. Derham and Maurice Goldman.

He pleaded not guilty to the gambling indictment before Judge Fosdick and was held in $3000 bail for trial.

GAETA IS NAMED

Gaeta, brother of Louis Gaeta, murdered outside a Revere gambling room in Novembr, 1937, by being listed in nine of the indictments handed down today, was automatically marked by the "blue ribbon" probers as the ringleader of the alleged beach city rackets.

The new indictments handed down today disclosed that 10 gambling dens were in operation in Revere until Atty.-Gen. Dever cracked down on the city a few months ago.

They were located in the indictments as being in Broadway, Shirley avenue, Winthrop avenue, Ocean avenue and Revere street. Two of the alleged gambling dens on Broadway are only a short distance from Revere City Hall.

OTHER PLACES LISTED

In the second batch of Revere indictments, Walter H. Hickey is allegedly associated with gaming rooms in Ocean avenue, Edward Seigel in Shirley avenue, Nicholas Gaeta and Archie Engle in Shirley avenue, Gaeta and Arthur Habelow in Broadway.

Lyman Berenson, Sam Zalinski, Michael Kingsley, Joseph Cordillo and James Preston are named as associated in another gambling den in Shirley avenue.

Pasquale Barrasso and Gaeta are indicted in connection with an alleged gaming room at an unnumbered address on Revere street.

Arthur Jacobs is named in connection with gambling operations in Winthrop avenue and Habelow is cited again for keeping and maintaining a gambling nuisance in Beach street.

The grand jury also charged that Charles Cataldo, Joseph Cordillo, Michael Kingsley and James Preston were associated with Jacobs at the Winthrop avenue address.

FUGITIVE INDICTED

Archie Engle is named in two indictments charging gambling in Shirley avenue, Gaeta and Andrew Cataldo in Broadway, and Hyman Berenson in Shirley avenue.

Preston is already under indictment in Suffolk County for the murder of Louis Gaeta and has been a fugitive for more than six months.

Habelow is proprietor of a Revere taxicab company, and Hickey is a prominent Revere business man.

Samuel "The Chinaman" Zarensky and Michael Kingsley are now in Norfolk prison colony where they are being held as material witnesses in the Louis Gaeta murder.

The alleged gambling rooms at two addresses in Broadway, mentioned in the indictments, are only a short distance from Revere City hall.

15 Named By Jurors

The following 15 persons were named in the new batch of indictments returned today by the Suffolk County grand jury in its investigation of rackets and racketeers in Revere:

Barbara Calls Lawyer, Banker

LONDON, June 24 (AP)—A banker and a lawyer beat an early morning path to the guarded home of blonde Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow today.

With a British magistrate's order standing between the American-born heiress and the noble Dane she married, the countess received Sir John Miltanke, head of the trust which controls part of her fortune.

The weary solicitor, William Mitchell, had arrived at Winfield House in Regent's Park on the heels of the milkman—at 8 a. m.

Sir John's visit caused watchers to wonder if the countess were not considering some new disposal of part of her five-and-ten-cent store millions.

At the same time Prince Frederick of Hohenzollern, a grandson of the former Kaiser of Germany, told the Associated Press a "crank" letter which he received about the time the Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow "took precautions to protect herself already had no connection with the case.

He said Scotland Yard was investigating the letter but that it was one of a number he had received since going to work in a London banking house.

Court Haugwitz-Reventlow pre-from a reconciliation with his estranged wife of three years in the dispute over their son, Lance.

If he comes to England he will be required to appear before the magistrate who issued papers to the countess on non-extraditable allegations.

WAITS HUTTON'S WORD

There always was the possibility, however, that the court process might be withdrawn. The [illegible] was reported to have waited until early hours yesterday for the Detroit tycoon.

Meanwhile the countess awaited news from her father, Franklyn Hutton, who spent most of yesterday in Paris with the count.

[illegible] was known. But [illegible] that he had succeeded in straightening out her argument with the titled Dane.

In fact friends of the heiress said there was some question whether the differences between them had not gone so far that a reconciliation would be impossible.

CALLS IN DOCTOR

The possibility was mentioned that Hutton might give up temporarily his diplomatic efforts in Paris and come to London today to talk matters over with Barbara.

She was known to be feeling the strain to such an extent that she called in Lord Horder, physician-in-ordinary to the King, yesterday. The possibility was he would make another call today.

Only chubby little Lance appeared to be oblivious to the commotion which has upset the routine of Winfield House.

Since Lance was born in London within His Majesty's dominion and also here he is considered a British subject under British law.

His Dane's parentage however leaves him Danish and he will not [illegible] 22 years of age when he could lose his British nationality by a declaration of allegiance to Denmark.

Hutton Still Seeks To Pacify Babs, Count

PARIS, June 24 (AP) Franklyn L. Hutton said he would make another effort this afternoon to smooth difficulties between his daughter Barbara and her husband, Count Haugwitz-Reventlow.

Hutton announced he had arranged a new conference with the count who after a short absence from his hotel returned alone.

Hutton again denied reports friction was serious over conflicting wishes of the count and countess concerning their son's education.

"There is too much nonsense going around about the whole affair," Hutton said.

He laughed off reports that he had four bodyguards, remarking:

"I still am able to take care of myself if I need to, without bodyguards."

He said he had been receiving telephone calls from London "all night long and most of the morning."

Blanket, Shoe Clues Found in River Mystery

SOUTH HADLEY, June 24 (AP)—In a shore cottage the doors and windows of which were barred with sheet iron, state troopers today found a blanket they said was identically the same as that which wrapped the decomposed body of a man taken from the Connecticut River Wednesday.

The officers also reported finding a shoe, nearly buried in sand to which clung bits of cement. The shoe was about 12 feet from the cottage, which lies 200 yards upstream from where the body was found.

The new discoveries added impetus to the investigation.

Earlier, a description of a dental plate found in the mouth of the man was broadcast to dentists.

Big Top Strike In Third Day

SCRANTON, Pa., June 24 (AP)—John Ringling North, 34-year-old head of the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey circus invited 1600 striking employes today to study the show's financial accounts and judge for themselves whether a 25 per cent wage reduction was necessary.

North, Yale educated nephew of the founders, told the strikers that if the study did not convince them the cut ordered last Sunday was essential to the show's continuance, he would restore former wages.

The employes called a meeting to consider the proposal.

Meanwhile, the big top remained empty and silent for the second showless day.

Turner's Auto Ride With Artist Detailed in Trial

SALEM, June 24—Miss Mildred Copperman, Gloucester artist became intimate with Herbert Turner 7 years her senior on the carnival auto ride they took together, according to Turner's sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward Turner, in the testimony given here today.

The mother, Everett Turner of Arlington, was called as a witness in Essex probate court here in contest of Herbert Turner's will, dies and three daughters. He was the second Turner brother to die this Howard Turner having been on the stand yesterday. The widow and daughters are contesting a will in which Herbert Turner left $5,000 to Miss Copperman.

Everett Turner testified in part today.

"My brother told me Miss Copperman saw him first on an occasion when he and his wife and two daughters were dining at a Rockport hotel.

"Herbert said Miss Copperman asked the clerk to introduce her to him.

"Next day, Herbert said, he took Miss Copperman for an auto ride around Cape Ann. Herbert said he liked her mind.

"Herbert later told me he took Miss Copperman on a second auto ride and on that occasion she made love to him and they became intimate."

A Pretty Fix, Easily Fixed

FRANKIE HEALEY
"Pull" Voids Parking Ticket

Desk Sergeant Edward P. O'Neill had to crane his neck to see the caller who came into the Back Bay police station today clutching a blue illegal-auto-parking tag.

"I'm Frankie Healey and I want to get this tag fixed," the caller announced.

Sergeant O'Neill looked grave.

"How old are you, Mr. Healey?" he inquired.

"I'm 16 and I've been driving four years, and I guess I gotta right to park my pedal-power auto in the alley out back of the station, because I work here."

That cleared the situation, so Sergt. O'Neill inquired further.

"What kind of work do you do here, Mr. Healey?"

"I work in the stable and I polish saddles, and sometimes I help put away the horses, too."

"And about that tag. It says my auto was blocking traffic in the alley, but honest, sergeant, there's plenty of room for anybody to get by me."

"Anyhow, I want to know what copper put that tag on my car. He's gonna hear from me, that's what. Picking on a fellow from his own station house."

Here was a problem that needed all Sergt. O'Neill's justly celebrated.

So he spoke to year old Mr. Healey of the station house stables.

"Look, Frank! You forget about who put that tag on you, you promise not to report the copper to the commissioner, and I tell you what I'll do. I'll tear up the tag."

Almost Healey thought it cried.

"Okay, sergeant," he said. "But see it don't happen again, will you?"

Wife Reveals His Hideaway

Revealed by the wife who allegedly deserted him, Sellino D'Angelo, 44, of Boston, a tragic figure counterfeiting war, was captured by police in the basement of Kerr's rear home.

In November 1937 D'Angelo was arrested in Weymouth with 21 other men for having four counterfeit $10 bills in his possession.

In December he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the Essex County House of Correction in Ipswich. After two months there he was transferred to Worcester State Hospital where he escaped.

At that time his wife told Secret Service police he returned to the home and choked her with a belt.

United States Commissioner Peter F. Kane ordered D'Angelo held under $5,000 bail for Essex County authorities.

Harvard Peak Climbers Safe

VALDEZ, Alaska, June 24 (AP)—Th four-man Harvard Alaskan expedition, which during the past month has been exploring the unmapped heart of the great Chugach mountain range, was returned safely here today by Pilot Bob Reeve in two trips from its 6000-foot base camp.

Bradford Washburn, head of the group, reported the greatest achievement of the trip was the successful ascent on June 19 of Mount Saint Agnes, highest peak in the Chugach range—a feat never before accomplished.

The party set out by plane a month ago, using special steel skis to take off from Valdez. A landing was made on glacier ice 1000 feet deep and the group camped there 28 days.

SUN SHINES TWICE

Washburn gave much credit for the success of the expedition to Reeve's flying skill. He estimated it would have taken several weeks of ground travel to have made a survey base high on the range.

Of the 28 days spent in the mountains, only two afforded sunshine. A series of gales and two hurricanes, reaching a velocity of more than 80 miles an hour, left one of the party's camps buried 36 hours.

Two tents were blown flat on one occasion, while at a camp 9000 feet up on an exposed ridge the men were forced to take tent poles down and spend a wild, sleepless night with the tent wrapped around their heads. When the storm abated they were half-buried in snow drifts.

DOZEN 10,000-FT. PEAKS

With very little clear weather, the party relayed supplies up the mountains through deep snow. The ascent to the summit was accomplished from the 9000-foot camp in a steady 13 hour climb.

Washburn said the range included at least a dozen unmapped peaks more than 10,000 feet high and some of the "most amazing and tremendous glaciers and ice falls I have ever seen."

He declared he had obtained valuable panoramas and instrument sights for mapping the head of Matanuska glacier and surrounding peaks, which later could be used for aerial photographs.

The expedition, under the auspices of the Hamilton Rice's Harvard Institute of Geographical Exploration, also carries special flags of the National Geographical Society and the Explorers Club.

During July and August, the party intends to cover the entire area with a network of aerial photographs.

Vienna Revolt Against Hitler

LONDON, June 24 (INS)—Nationwide insubordination to the Nazi mailed fist has become so serious in Austria that German troops are being held in readiness to move in and maintain order, the London Daily Herald, labor newspaper, said today.

According to [illegible] correspondents in Germany, except Lieut.-Col. Chancellor Hitler's personal representative in Vienna has regarded the situation is nearly out of control, and that neither the Austrian army nor the police can be relied upon.

Any [illegible] Buerckel may have had to [illegible] Austria [illegible] to the news later said.

There is a real fear that a Hitler visit to Austria at the present time might occasion hostile demonstrations. Austria's Nazis, the Herald continued, are angry and resentful at the arrogant domineering behavior of the new German organizers, whom Buerckel apparently has been unable to restrain.

Women Riot Against Nazi Storm Troops

VIENNA, June 24 (INS)—A squadron of brown-shirted Nazi storm troopers engaged in anti-Semitic activities against Vienna's poorer class Jews were wildly attacked by a crowd of disapproving women who witnessed the persecution while returning from work.

Police riot squads had to be called before order was restored.

The Nazis had invaded a street in the ancient slum district and were forcing a number of Jewish women to wash their automobiles.

When one Jewish victim, an expectant mother, fainted at the task, the women onlookers set upon the troopers and were forcing them out of the street when police arrived.

Nazi party members in Austria are all but openly mutinous and Hitler's commissioner is afraid that riots, armed clashes and widespread assassinations may flare up according to the British newspaper. Only an overwhelming display of Germany's military force can prevent future dangerous disturbances in Austria, the Nazis believe.

Jew Baiter Hits Plot to Seize U. S.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—The German American Bund was out in the open today in its opposition to Jews in America, on the week of its "Fuehrer," Fritz Kuhn.

"All the Jews are enemies of the United States," Kuhn told a state legislative committee inquiry yesterday.

Then he calmly recited for Senator John J. McNaboe, chairman, a list of charges against American Jewry that closely resemble the charges of the Nazi government against the German Jews.

MASTER MINDS

Kuhn claimed the growth of his bund and its spread to 94 cities in the United States.

He charged that Jews were the master minds behind the Communist party; that the Rothschilds, through Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the Warburgs, control the Democratic and Republican parties; that the family of J. P. Morgan has Jewish blood; that the anti-Nazi boycott was dictated to Samuel Untermyer by Moscow, and [illegible] the Nazi salute is "the correct salute for the whole United States."

CROWD TENSE

He said that 60 per cent of American public officials listed in the session was held was watched. Who's Who were Jews.

"But it wasn't the Jews who built up this country," he said. "They came later when there was something to grab."

The tense crowd that packed the Supreme Court room in which and chuckled frequently by a large police detail. Kuhn said the bund maintains 22 summer camps, a [illegible] boycott league to "counter-boycott" Jews, and four newspapers.

Spy Fund Sought

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today he thought the Army and Navy should have more funds for running down spies in this country.

The President's comment, made in response to press conference questions, came after he had said that the question of publishing a series of newspaper articles on New York spy investigations involved both patriotism and ethics.

The articles, prepared by Leon G. Turrou, a former justice department agent, have not been published pending the outcome of a suit brought by the government to prevent their publication.

Asked whether recent disclosures regarding spy activities in this country would make it desirable to provide additional funds for counter-espionage by the Army and Navy intelligence services, Mr. Roosevelt replied in the affirmative.

LOOK OUT FOR CARBON

When you have a Jenney Solvenized Treatment, to clean the hard carbon out of your car, don't stand back of the exhaust pipe! Hard carbon which ordinary gasoline builds up in your motor will pour out in clouds!

THOUSANDS ARE SAVING WITH JENNEY SOLVENIZED

THOUSANDS of New England motorists have had their cars treated with Jenney Solvenized Concentrate, and are delighted with the immediately improved mileage and power, better idling and pick-up which result—and continue with the use of Jenney Solvenized Gasoline. Thousands of other motorists gain the same result more gradually by using Jenney Solvenized Gasoline regularly.

Jenney Solvenized gives you these remarkable results because it is processed under exclusive patents—it dissolves carbon binder, which improves compression, and saves the gasoline vapor which would otherwise leak past valves and rings

Jenney Solvenized goes farther, yet costs no more. Use it and save, and for even better results use Solvenoil with it—the new oil that reduces friction, heat, and sludge—the oil that lasts longer and protects better

'White Banners' Splendid Film

By PEGGY DOYLE

Superb performances, notably Fay Bainter's excellent photography and effective direction put "White Banners," currently unreeling on the Metropolitan screen, in the upper brackets.

This Warner Brothers production of the popular Cosmopolitan Magazine story by Lloyd C. Douglas, latest inspirational novel, might very well have been a hokey, sob-stuff account of the genuinely interesting entertainment it is.

Unpretentious appealing sincere, it is of the genre of those memorable quietly beautiful pictures which will stick in your mind long after the colossal box office hits have been forgotten.

"White Banners" is the story of a mother's devotion of her son whom she discovers after years of separation. She helps him when his waywardness and crass lack of understanding appear to be leading to thwart a promising future. This accomplished she wanders out of his life without revealing their relationship.

As the mother Miss Bainter, one of Hollywood's finest actresses and Hollywood's unrecognized stars gives a tender restrained performance. It has taken the movies a long time to discover her but the Hattiak should personally be put out of celluloid obscurity.

Another great performance is Claude Rains' as school chemistry professor into whose Indiana home Hattiak a stranger pedaling kitchen gadgets comes out of the storm. Stuck to rest and warm herself. She remains as cook, housekeeper and beloved mother of the lad and partner in a chaste, if unusual household.

'Lord Jeff' Well Liked

Fredericka rules the soundtrack at Loew's State and Orpheum theaters where Lord Jeff," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's screen cameo of juvenile British sailors in the making is showing to large and vocally enthusiastic audiences.

Freddie Bartholomew and Mickey Rooney, as varied a pair of youths as you'd encounter on or off screen, are the pictures stars and rightly so. Freddie, as the boy who has been committed to the Royal Colts merchant marine training school for British youths after being innocently involved as accessory in a big jewel robbery, is more than adequate.

Rooney the Mickey, in this film gives another of his vivid performances. He is always so unstudied and natural that it is difficult to disassociate the real from the reel Rooney.

These two, Freddie and Mickey are avowed enemies after an unpleasant experience at the picture's start. Mickey, doing a good turn for the new boy, discovers a bad spot in Freddie, which, even if he is willing to forgive and forget, his youthful fellow seamen are not. They 'n' it the cool on Freddie.

Charles Coburn, skilled stage actor, is Captain Briggs, in charge of the English institution that trains orphan boys for the service in His Majesty's naval reserve. He and his naval aide, Herbert Mundin do yeoman service in this Sam Wood production.

A little fellow who is most effective in a small part is Terry Kilburn who plays one of the younger Lange admirals.

If you too were unenthused by the last minute regeneration of the "Crime School" boys go to Loew's two theaters this week and observe the authentic reform of "Lord Jeff." P. D.

Chinese Change Movie Titles

In China abroad movie theater managers and distributors take strange names with American movie titles. The King and the Chorus Girl, for instance, is masquerading in the Orient as "Playful Dragon Has a Lark with a Phoenix" and "I Met Him In Paris" is none other than "Three Stars Enter the Moon."

Norumbega Good Site for Outings

Norumbega, with its shady picnic grove catering facilities and amusements to satisfy the whole family, is an ideal solution for the picnic outing. This year's feature is Frances' dog and pony show, which is presented twice daily. As in past years, there are free movies at night.

Fight Films at RKO

The official blow-by-blow motion pictures of the Joe Louis-Max Schmeling heavyweight championship fight are being shown exclusively at the RKO Boston theater, starting today, together with two features, "Rawhide" with Lou Gehrig and Evalyn Knapp, and "Flight Into Nowhere" with Jack Holt and Jacqueline Wells. There will be no increase in prices.

"Rawhide" presents the slugging star first baseman of the New York Yankees in the role of a two-gun cowboy who, teamed with the singing Smith Ballew, engages in range warfare in an attempt to drive the rustler racketeers out of the West.

Clark Gable Will Do 'Gone With Wind' Lead

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor, International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, June 24. Cheer up, you fans. You get your Dark Gable in "Gone With the Wind."

David Selznick had to go into a producing partnership with M-G-M to obtain Clark for the Rhett Butler role, but the public insisted on him so there was nothing else to do.

Clark has hardly taken his face out of the script of "Gone With the Wind" for the last few days. It's all finished now and the picture, Louella O. Parsons is stated to go into production the first of February, for September, 1939, release.

We told you last March that Norma Shearer was considering the pros and cons of playing Scarlett. Now that David and Leo are to produce the Margaret Mitchell book jointly, Norma has agreed to Scarlett.

Either Woody Van Dyke or Jack Conway will megaphone it. The remainder of the cast will be selected from M-G-M players. Selznick continues producing independently, making only "Gone With the Wind" on his father-in-law's lot.

Seeing is believing and if I hadn't seen the receiving Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon and six-year-old Barbara Bebe received in Johannesburg on their arrival there, I wouldn't have thought it possible. Ben showed us the films taken by a newsreel and by himself and the reception accorded the American movie stars was akin to Lindbergh's triumphal ride down Fifth avenue.

The city of Johannesburg rolled out its theaters for the stars, named every one after them and the theaters in turn theatrical boy couldn't help it if the whole town turned out. Movie stars are a rarity there and you never saw so much excitement when the decorated car carrying the three Lyons drove down the main street.

Barbara Bebe, when asked how she liked it, said "It's better than the coronation in London, because this time I am the princess."

Chatter in Hollywood: We're all sorry to hear that Tom Brown and his pretty bride of a year, the former Natalie Draper, have separated and that Natalie has gone home to her parents, the Ted Drapers.

A LINE OR TWO: Jerry Wald has a good excuse now if his boss, Jack Warner, finds him hanging around Hollywood Park race track these days. He is writing a story for the "Dead End" kids, with a racing background, with accent on the jockeys and their rivalries . . . Jackie Cooper, who seems to be born romantically between Bonita Granville and Judy Garland, took his trap drums over to Judy's house tonight and serenaded her with a couple of good crashes while her mother played the piano.

Edgar "Slow Burn" Kennedy and his wife will tour France, now that he has completed his Gaumont British film, "Chicago Bea."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Leo Carrillo collapsed on the "Too Hot to Handle" set today and had to be taken home. He was working with a temperature of 104; there is a real chill in town, Sheik Hasan Wasfa, who is being shown about the town by Derry Kirchhofer, Standard Oil executive. They were at Phil Selznick's; wonder if Warners really knew that Errol Flynn and Patrick Knowles were at Coronado giving themselves a holiday? But the boys returned yesterday so all is forgiven; Paula Stone and George Mason who broke their engagement several months ago are considering matrimony again.

Friends in the gay Mexican set formerly popular with Hollywood resident to open this week with Lupe Velez and Johnny Weissmuller helping to start festivities. Kay Francis, having finished her picture, leaving for an unannounced holiday, the Bing Crosby throwing a three-way birthday party for the twins and Lil Gary the other. It's to be one of the social events of the season. Cary Grant and Doug Fairbanks Jr. are wearing short haircuts for "Bunga Dia"; Adrienne Ames and Bruce Cabot are on the same list but they seldom speak. This is one divorce that is a friendly parting. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

Kay Francis Writes Own Film Story

Kay Francis' screen swan song will be "Lady Pilot," a little tiring about a globe-girdling aviatrix she herself has written. This is Miss Francis' first literary effort and is to be the last picture she will do under the Warner banner. She is forsaking the movies for matrimony, this time "for good" she promises.

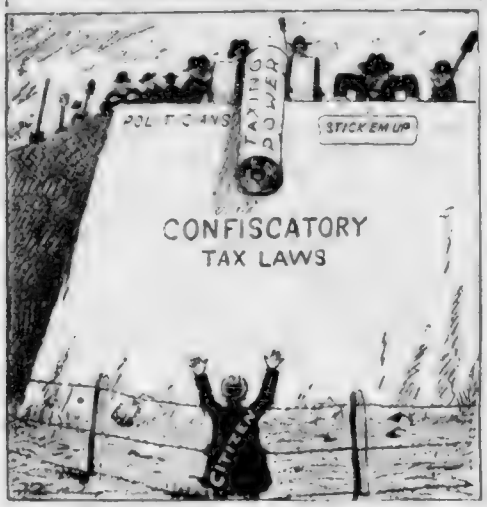
"Entrenched Greed"



The Editor Says: President Roosevelt recently and rightly remarked that revision of the Federal tax system is urgently necessary. He intimated that the next session of Congress will be asked to take action.

However, not only the Federal system should be overhauled. State and local taxation is even more onerous and unscientific.

Taxes of all kinds have been imposed helter skelter by politicians, and the mass results are little short of confiscation.

The entire nation vitally needs a co-ordinated tax plan, to reserve certain tax sources to the Federal Government, certain others to the States, and still others to the localities.

Abolishment of duplicating and conflicting taxes, behind which greedy politicians are entrenched and fortified, will benefit every interest including that of Government itself.

THE CURRENT TALK of settling the war debts "through mutual trade and mutual trust adjustments" is TRICK LANGUAGE, cloaking a movement to CANCEL THE DEBTS.

But—and very fortunately—public opinion in the United States has been abundantly clear and understandable.

The American people PUT UP THIS MONEY out of their own private and individual pockets, and at great sacrifice.

They had every pledge and promise in honor and good faith of the borrowing nations that the money would be PAID BACK.

Therefore, how can there be any basis for "mutual trade and mutual trust adjustments" with nations which, though amply able to pay as their continuing expenditures for armaments attest, flatly refuse to meet their honorable obligations to the United States?

They have reneged on honest and acknowledged debts which, when incurred saved most of them from OBLITERATION as independent nations.

Could we expect them to be MORE HONORABLE in meeting future obligations?

FINNISH-AMERICANS of Massachusetts unite tomorrow and Sunday in a celebration commemorating the 300th anniversary of the landing of the first Finnish settlers in Delaware.

Properly Governor Hurley and Mayor Tobin will be principal speakers at the opening dinner in Boston. And other men prominent in the affairs of the State and nation will be guests.

We shall do well, all of us, to make this event the success it deserves to be. Men and women of Finnish ancestry are good citizens, REAL Americans. You will find them outstanding in every walk of respectable life, and almost never do you hear of their being involved in crime or dishonesty.

OPEN THE DOOR of the Governor's Council and end political back-stop trading in consideration of judicial appointments—all appointments.

This paper has demanded open-door proceedings, and today reports that demand on the basis of the circumstances attending yesterday's coming of the appointment of Judge Fred T. Field as chief justice of the Supreme Court. The morning papers, according to their partisan views, gave different versions of the act.

But it is PERFECTLY CLEAR to the public that trades are being made.

Open the door, boys, and let the voters hear your offers.

The Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, June 24

MR. ROOSEVELT will be treading dangerous ground when he makes his contemplated "swing around the circle" this summer.

All conditions in the country, social, economic and political, are so vastly different from what they have ever been before in a campaign year, that the usual signboards are practically worthless.

The one Democratic precedent for what Mr. Roosevelt hopes to accomplish—the election of a Congress which will sustain his policies—should give him pause.

ON OCTOBER 25, 1918, out of a clear Washington sky, Woodrow Wilson appealed to the nation to elect a Democratic Congress.

He stated his case in words which today accurately summarize Mr. Roosevelt's own philosophy.

"If you have approved of my leadership and wish me to continue to be your spokesman in affairs at home and abroad, I earnestly beg that you will express yourselves unmistakably to that effect by returning a Democratic majority to both the Senate and the House of Representatives."

MR. WILSON'S appeal to party considerations within his party aroused against the partisan appeal.

At the outset of the war he had announced that "politics is adjourned."

Abruptly, in the midst of the war, which then seemed likely to go into another year, he convened politics in extra session, on the verge of the elections.

Now, a great many Republicans had supported Wilson's war policies. It was then that Representative Guinea Gardner of Massachusetts coined a phrase become famous, by proudly announcing that he proposed to be a "rubber stamp."

Wilson's partisanship galvanized the inert Republicans in Congress into resentful activity.

Will H. Hayes, then G. O. P. national chairman, on October 24 called on Republicans to meet the challenge. In the elections on November 5 the country repudiated the War President by electing a Congress Republican at both ends.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE fine art of being happy contented in being contented with half-a-loaf, because half-a-loaf is all that anybody gets in this life—and sometimes it's more than he can digest.

For instance, if you marry, you'll miss your precious freedom and independence; but you'll escape all the loneliness and boredom that go with them.

And if you don't marry, you'll miss companionship and children—and all the trials and heartaches and responsibilities that go with them. Fifty-fifty—take your choice!

If you live in the city, you're always missing oxygen and the flowers and the homely comfort of real neighbors; and if you live in the country, you're always missing the fast train and the gay shops and the night life of the city.

So, it's a toss-up WHICH half of the loaf fate hands you. The point is to take it and LIKE it. Half-a-loaf is a pretty big slice—and nobody has any MORE!

Recreation is as important to man as water and fire. You and I cannot live normally without refreshment, and that is the true meaning of recreation.

Park Commissioner William P. Long believes organized recreation has become a science and, in today's Boston Evening American he tells of what streamlined recreation is doing TODAY and what it hopes to do TOMORROW.

By WILLIAM MICHELFELDER

Boston Evening American Staff Writer

Play, long ago, became a fixed phase of municipal life.

Civic spirit is something a community depends upon and in Boston, according to Park Commissioner William P. Long, local government is UNDER OBLIGATION to equip a citizen with both brain and brawn.

Educational facilities will take care of the intellectual dress-up, naturally, but you and I need HEALTH to do thinking, and there's nothing like a good dose of open-air zest.

City life is a problem because its municipal "personality" is part of an economic and political entity, WHICH ULTIMATELY REPRESENTS ITS PERCENTAGE OF STRONG, CLEAN-MINDED CITIZENS READY TO CARRY THE ABUSIVE SHORT-COMINGS OF CITY LIFE.

Recreation is one of the guardians of public health in the opinion of Commissioner Long and there is no question as to the general wisdom or advantages of it.

And here's what Commissioner Long thinks about it:

"We first decided there was a need for a permanent program when I [illegible] the playgrounds.

Girl About Town

by Ann Marsters

REMEMBER the argument between a Mr. and Mrs. Mead, which we printed a while ago, having to do with Mrs. Mead's conviction that the women should run the world—and Mr. Mead's opposite ideas?

Even if you don't remember, you may be interested in hearing what Ines Haynes Irwin has to say about the situation in the current Good Housekeeping magazine.

Ann Marsters

According to Mrs. Irwin, "men do not know how to spend money. They know nothing about management and organization. They do not know how to keep the world clean and to maintain law and order. They appear to like war. They are romanticists."

On the other hand, "women know how to spend money. They are born managers and organizers. They insist upon cleanliness, law and order. They hate war. They are realists."

And so Mrs. Irwin wants women to take over the world. And she has organized the entire race of men into three general groups.

1—The Drone Man. "The Drone Man is the rarest of the species, but a nuisance nevertheless. Habitat—a comfortable chair. Function—none.

2—The Bric-a-Brac Man. "A widespread class, identifiable by radiations of irresistible charm. Habitat — anywhere picturesque. Function—to make life pleasant.

3—The Genius Man. "Distinguishable by an absent look in the eye. Habitat—the workshop. Function—to create."

To dispose of these classes of men who apparently would be under foot if women took over the world, Mrs. Irwin suggests that we "turn the Drone Men out to pasture; put the Bric-a-Brac Men in the bric-a-brac cabinet; lock up the Genius Men in the laboratory, the study, and the studio."

TO DEFEND her stand Mrs. Irwin says that men have succeeded only in making a hopeless muddle, and that "every century, men plunge mankind into a deeper, blacker, more hopeless chaos." And she cites several instances in which women took over men's jobs and produced successful results where men had failed miserably.

Nevertheless, we doubt if anything concrete will ever come of it although we're usually quite willing to admit that "anything is possible."

THE ANNUAL hopscotch tournament for girls will be held tomorrow on the Common, with about 300 participants. A series of eliminations has already been held on the playgrounds throughout the city.

Boston, you should know, has the most active and complete playground program of any city in the country. About 20,000 girls take part in the organized playground games. And there are 30,000 boys enrolled in baseball alone.

Is Crisis Over?

by Hugh S. Johnson

BETHANY BEACH, DEL.—The foremost American question is, "When will this depression cease?" The President says that a few raindrops of improvement may mean a much-needed shower which is decidedly more conservative than prosperity Hoovering around the corner. But it is a lot better than such official pessimism as Mr. Wallace's occasional out-givings on the farm prospect—which have been the equivalent of crying, "Bottom fish for sale."

General Johnson

To Kresge from the vantage point of months of absence from the scene, thanks we have almost cried ourselves out.

The Administration is well known to be hoping highly that its great outpouring of the public's money will bring a distinct revival just in time for the November election. They "planned it that way." But will it?

It will if the very spending itself and other governmental acts and attitude don't frighten timid, hiding, private money back into its hole. That is an "if" so uncertain that nobody can call the turn with anything more than a guess. It depends on the flux of mass opinion—crowd psychology. Nobody can either time or measure that.

The President quotes that great seer, Danny Roper, that national income this year will be sixty billions as against about seventy billions last year. Mebbeso. It is a lag of thirty billions below what we need for late-war normalcy of business without increased population.

THREE BILLIONS of public spending is the most that could be dished out this year. That can't make up for a lag of thirty billions or even for the lag of ten billions between this and last year. Nothing under the sun can make up that lag except a return of private spending that doesn't mean just big investment issues. It means an end of too much caution and saving against fear of disaster by every one of the 130,000,000 Americans who has two nickels to rub against each other.

It is a cowering of capital, labor and farming of jobless. Unless all signs fail that backlash is going to continue through the summer at an increased pace.

So much for the minus signs in this guessing contest. There are a few plus signs—for us at least—the President's "few drops of rain." One of them is a great and nearly general European drought and a tendency in war-threatened countries to lay up surplus stocks of commodities—including farm products. This could never fully offset the price-depressing effect of our probable bumper crops.

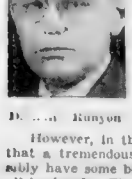
The Brighter Side

by Damon Runyon

WE SUPPOSE we ought to be talking about the German spy business, or the various wars, or the Administration, or Governor Lehman running for United States Senator from New York, or something else big and important, but we keep thinking of the New York radio announcer whose wife hated the way he fatted up and refused to make himself look like Atlas, "The World's Most Perfect Man."



Damon Runyon

That is just the trouble with us as a commentator. When we ought to be trying to develop ourself as a journalistic Messiah and taking care of the major problems of the world, and working ourself up to a big old blunderbus columnist, we get interested in some minor league matter like the troubles of a fat husband.

However, in this particular case we really feel that a tremendous issue is involved. It may possibly have some bearing upon the Bill of Rights of all husbands. The lady in this case showed reporters a photograph of Atlas with his velvety muscles concealed only by a loin cloth, and said that her husband, the radio announcer, looked a little like that when she married him 12 years ago, but that he would not remain that way.

She said that when she suggested a little exercise to keep himself in trim, such as skipping a rope, he would just yawn and lie down on the couch. She said she showed him a photo of Atlas one night and told him that's how he looked like this, you fat pig! So he went down to Bermuda and got a diaper and that brings us to the issue involved.

WE HAVE seen pictures of Atlas ourself, though we hasten to state that they were not displayed to us on any theory that we ought to look like him.

It is possible that we have the familiar old pictures of Bernard MacFadden confused in our memory with those of Atlas. That Mr. MacFadden was another fellow of bulbous muscle who screened well in a loin cloth. Like Atlas he had an aspect of vim, vigor and vitality that was mighty discouraging to an anaemic like us.

ATLAS and Mr. MacFadden were exponents of physical culture and made something of a profession of their shapes. In fact, Mr. MacFadden finally parlayed his shape into a magazine which we think is about as far as any shape in the history of the world has ever gone, bar Peggy Joyce's.

Mr. MacFadden's shape once caused us a heap of trouble. We wanted to have a shape like his and we applied ourself to a system of exercise that left us in such an exhausted condition that we had to take a long rest just lying still.

ABOLISH the WPA? I wonder. Anyone who has made a comprehensive survey of this country at the beginning of the depression, must admit the necessity of the relief then given in a most grim emergency.

Anyone equally intelligent, who knows the temper and condition of the country today, must feel apprehensive at the thought of what would happen if relief were suddenly withdrawn.

Something is undoubtedly wrong or we would not have 14 million still unemployed after eight years of unprecedented spending. But do YOU believe that abolishing the WPA would settle matters?

That part of the controversy I'll leave to you and I'll gladly publish as many of your answers, pro and con, as space permits. BUT I DO REGISTER A VIGOROUS PROTEST AGAINST THE STATEMENT THAT YOUNG AMERICA LACKS INITIATIVE.

Young America happens to be my pet and personal project. I receive from 500 to 1500 letters from it a day. And I have moving and abundant evidence that THIS PRESENT GENERATION OF YOUNG AMERICANS HAS AS MUCH PRIDE, COURAGE AND INDEPENDENCE AS ANY THAT EVER LIVED!

THERE are loafers in every generation. But it is not in the nature of any normal youngster—least of all a young American—to prefer the paltry wage and drab adventure of a WPA project to an independent job with a future. IT'S NO FUN TO BE ON RELIEF . . . and that's an argument which hits every young Yankee where he lives.

Admitted that Federal methods may warrant discussion. BUT YOU CAN'T TELL ME THAT MODERN YOUNG AMERICA ISN'T STILL THE SMARTEST AND SPUNKIEST CROP THIS OLD RACE EVER PRODUCED!

Beauty Pickup Secret

GIRLS WHO are dismayed to find their good looks wilting before the pay party is at an end would do well by themselves if they'd take plenty of time for beauty preparations.

Remove make-up with a liquid cleanser. Get into a warm bath and rest for ten minutes. The warm water will untie nerve knots, induce circulation and rest your weary bones. Hold the wash cloth under the hot water faucet; lay hot compresses on the face, neck and chest. Use the bath brush vigorously all over the skin surface, then turn on the cool shower.

Have a vigorous rubdown, then use an alcohol body tonic. Flop down on the bed for 15 minutes, holding a cool wet cloth over the eyes. Refrigeration takes away the tired look.

Dress leisurely. When doing your hair, pin down the rolls. Nothing is more demoralizing than having one's coiffure play out early in the evening. Begin your complexion beautifying with a foundation cosmetic. Use eye shadows lightly and place factory blusher high.

Clever Ways to Use Left-Over Meats

FROM MARTHA LEE'S FRIDAY BROADCAST OVER STATION WMEX—11:30 A. M.

It is impossible always to gauge accurately the appetites of the family, instead, clever housewives plan for leftovers. This enables them to take advantage of market conditions and serve good meals and often effects a real financial saving.

In buying meats never hesitate to choose a roast or pot roast larger than is needed for one meal, for there are dozens of ways to utilize the last bits. It is a good idea to have more than enough of meats which are cooked for a considerable length of time, even meat loaves or stews because they make easy and economical second meals. Here are suggestions for using left-over meats:

LEFT OVER ROAST OR POT-ROAST

Dice the left-over roast, combine it with a cream sauce and serve in patty shells or on baking powder biscuits. Left-over vegetables such as peas and carrots, if there is not enough to serve separately, are often added to the creamed meat.

Or you might slice the roast into thin slices and reheat it in a barbecue sauce. Since the meat is already cooked it needs only to be heated. Longer cooking is undesirable.

The barbecue sauce is made with

[illegible]

Melt butter, add chopped onion and cook until onions are clear. Add [illegible] then add vinegar, catsup, water, Tabasco and Worcestershire sauce. Bring to a boil.

A good way to use leftover mashed potatoes always a problem to the housewife, is to cream some butter, stir them and add salt and pepper and thin cream or milk. Pile this into the casserole dish. Lay country sausage in a circle on top of the potato mixture and alternate each sausage by a quartered tomato. Baked until sprouted a delicate brown in the oven, this casserole is found to be something different when it comes to the table.

And of course, we can't overlook good meat salads for warm weather meals. Molded salads as well as tossed salads and attractively arranged salads find favor these hot days and they offer a splendid opportunity to use up the left-overs.

MEAT AND VEGETABLE SALAD

[illegible]

Marinate the meat and peas in French dressing. Chill thoroughly. Arrange on crisp lettuce. Top with mayonnaise and sprinkle with paprika. Cut hard cooked eggs in thin slices crosswise and remove yolks. Arrange three slices around the meat and in center of each egg ring, place ring of sliced olive. Put yolks through sieve and sprinkle over [illegible]

HAM SALAD

[illegible]

Mix ham, peas and pimento together and marinate in French dressing. Chill thoroughly. Arrange on crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with slices of hard cooked eggs. Serve with Russian dressing.

Cites Danger of Angina Pectoris

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

THERE ARE many more or less serious ailments of the heart. Angina pectoris, as it is called, is one that causes much physical discomfort and a great mental anxiety. It is a common affliction of middle aged and elderly men. It is less frequent in women of the same age and it rarely attacks young adults.

When I first practiced medicine little was known about what to do for angina. So far as anything curative was concerned, the victim was left to his fate. Much progress has been made and the modern physician is able to control it, and in many instances to offer a cure.

In angina pectoris the coronary vessels, blood vessels of the heart wall, are involved. There is a narrowing of the vessels and occasionally there may be spasm or constriction of the vessels.

Several factors contribute to the onset of these attacks. Exertion, severe fatigue, worry and other emotions, digestive disturbances may bring on the angina pectoris.

The name means pain in the chest of course and that exactly describes the condition. The victim complains of pain over the middle of some part of the chest, radiating to the left shoulder, neck and usually down the left arm. There is a feeling of pressure [illegible] The pain may be high in the chest and the patient gives a sensation of strangling [illegible]

Usually the patient wants to assume certain positions feeling that when he does so the pain is lessened. If he presses forward the pain is relieved sometimes by the [illegible] and jaw.

Persons who suffer from mild attacks of what may be angina often believe the discomfort is due to heartburn or indigestion. This is unfortunate, because failure to discover that the discomfort is really due to heart [illegible] may lead to its being overlooked.

Trace Source of Gossip Before Believing It True

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Even though I believe it is rather impossible to be young and wise at the same time, perhaps this note will be a warning to some young person who is about to be victimized by vicious gossip.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Of course I should have more sense but who has any sense when love strikes a victim? We all worked at the same office. Antoinette, George and I. George was a very nice type of man. He was slow and impressed me as being very honorable and steady. Of course I was in love with him and he returned it.

Then Tony as we always called Antoinette, barged in. George looked good to her but apparently he got her number and paid her very little attention. Then one day she said she knew something she had to tell me. She swore me to secrecy and at last confided that George was married and had a child.

Instead of destroying my promise and having it out with George I merely dropped him. I was disgustingly hateful and now it's all over between us. When George found out the truth he said if I'd let him explain he would have done so long before but I was too proud. I believed what I wanted to believe and that was that.

Meantime Antoinette has faded from the scene. George left [illegible] for her and her [illegible] and she has another job. And I am terribly UNHAPPY.

Fortune Telling By Cards

As fascinating as the Queen of the Gypsies herself—that's Madge since she learned simple tips on fortune-telling.

To Jack, who yearns to roll in money, she says: "That Ace of Diamonds promises a trip soon, with money in it. The Seven of Diamonds, a wealthy friend who may give you a leg up. There's the Queen of Spades a lucky card for men."

To romantic Mabel: "The King of Diamonds says an ardent suitor will soon be pursuing you. The Two of Hearts a gift from him. The King of Clubs says life will smile on you."

To Jane, who hoped her fortune would glitter with success cards: "An unusual honor . . ahead, that Seven of Hearts says. Perhaps you'll be the pictorial head of your society. The Six of Clubs, an exciting new job. The Nine of Hearts, your wish come true."

Once you've learned the knack you can weave fortunes even around a campfire. A wolf-shaped spark promises a letter, a drum-like spark hints a kiss.

In handwriting you can discover personality secrets. A forward slant implies impatience; wide spaces, extravagance.

Our 40-page booklet LET ME TELL YOUR FORTUNE explains card fortunes, tea-leaf reading, numbers, dreams.

Simple Frock Secret of Success

By MARIAN MARTIN

If you want to shine in the fore front of fashion this summer hurl into print ... one that is soft and subtle in the heavy sun is bright

Victorian Age Do-Dads Back

THE SQUARE neckline has returned along with other details of the Victorian age. It is as modish as a beauty patch, as cute as a baby's bonnet. It enhances a young neck and is easy on one that has gone to seed a bit. It should be received with shouts of joy.

Heavy women find that the V line is their great friend. That the rounded neckline breaks a double chin and the effect is so distressing that you want to cover your eyes never look in the mirror again.

Girls with long, oval faces never make a mistake when they select the buttoned effect. It fills the rounded or pointed neck and make them look just what they are, lovely.

All of which brings us to the point that neck can should try early and never stop. Keep your head high, chin up, the love and fiddle strings will never bother you. Tell it you're under your feet down between your shoulder blades. When swelling and cream of your neighbor don't let it turn it forget. It's a friend to set in at the dentist's feast.

ELSIE ROBINSON, writes from the woman's viewpoint, discusses every-day affairs and problems regularly in the Boston American.

"REDHEADS ARE LUCKY"

by Vera Brown

'Handsome' Slaps Assistant Coach

What Has Happened:

Mike Shannon, pretty red-headed magazine counter girl at the Hotel Eureka, is trying to reform one of its spectacular guests — Handsome Larry Regan, sensational young southpaw left hand pitcher, whose misconduct has been worrying his team's management.

Mike is the chief support of her family. She is not pleased when "Wish" Malone, the club's No. 1 scout suggests that she might marry the erratic Handsome. But when the big boy falls again for liquor, she rushes to his room to "bring him to."

Assistant Coach Harper arrives, a most embarrassing scene ensues.

Now Continue:

CHAPTER FIVE

"Get out to the park!" Harper barked after a moment's awful silence.

"I was just leaving," Handsome managed.

"So I see." Harper's voice was biting. "And as for you, young woman, it's your kind that makes trouble for us coaches. You can go; I'll take care of Handsome."

Larry started for Harper, his fists up. The coach backed up.

"Don't hit him, Larry!" Mike cried, stepping between them.

Harper stared at Mike a moment.

"Don't hit him, I tell you." She caught Larry's arm. The two men stood glaring at each other for a moment. Then Harper turned on his heel, went out and slammed the door behind him. Handsome stood there, wiping his forehead.

"I should have broken every bone in his body."

"And been suspended."

"I believe you're right!" Handsome suddenly swept Mike into his arms. He kissed the top of her shining hair, gave her a little shake then let her go.

"You're a sweet thing, Mike. I'll be good."

Mike could not look at him. She was afraid he would see her eyes.

"Go now. I'm taking the back elevator down. And get some coffee or your wife out." Then she fled.

She was back at the magazine counter when Handsome came through the lobby. He signaled to her and he smiled his old smile. He was all right. But she trembled for the aftermath of the whole affair when Handsome got to the stadium.

She would have been much more perturbed could she have seen Handsome's entrance into the locker room half an hour later. He was so angry that going up on the outside he could not stop shaking, but by the time he got to the park he had calmed down. As he walked in most of the gang were in uniform.

"How are you, Larry?" Tom Marvin called. Handsome knew that unless Marvin was going to be nasty he would not have even spoken to him.

LARRY'S REVENGE

"You seem to be doin' all right with redheads," said Dusty Lee the team's No. 1 pitcher.

Handsome turned on him. "What do you mean?"

"What do you think I mean? You're due for a swell dressing down when Ace hears about this."

Handsome kept on lacing his shoes and he retorted: "I suppose that Tattling Tony Harper's been down here shooting off his mouth."

As Handsome spoke there was a sudden silence in the locker room so that his voice boomed out with startling loudness.

You could feel the tension. Handsome raised his head. Harper was standing in the door. He must have heard.

Before Harper could speak Handsome repeated:

"I said that Tattling Tony Harper!"

Harper advanced on him. Handsome jumped up, leaped toward the coach. If it had been anybody else but Handsome the boys would have interfered, stepped what followed.

Handsome came over and smacked Harper sharply, first on one side of his face, then on the other.

"You're not worth beating up, you little shrimp!"

Everyone in the room stood as though hypnotized. They could not believe what they were seeing. Ace Parker appeared suddenly out of his dressing room.

He bit his lip. Harper velled.

Ace looking at the big pitcher and then at Handsome.

"Get dressed and report to the front office, Regan." Then he went back into his room again.

Nobody said a word. Harper disappeared after Ace. Handsome turned into his locker desperate to get out of that tense atmosphere. Dusty Lee began to sing.

THE SHOWDOWN

But Handsome did not even turn his head. He walked out of the locker room through the tunnel and down into the bright sunshine. It was a perfect day.

Hand shaded his eyes suddenly. The diamond was so green and bright before him with the grand stands in deep shadow.

He loved it so. And he was going to leave it.

He stumbled up the clubhouse steps but his eyes, St. Louis was red. He walked numb outside the Old Man's office. He could hear Mr. Crisp "moaning" on the telephone a moment. After a long time Crisp's secretary came out.

"Mr. Crisp will see you now," said Miss Worden. And Handsome was facing the club's owner.

The Old Man has back to the windows sat at a big mahogany desk. Handsome stood there for a moment, and Crisp, seeing him thought how impossible it was that any young man should look as handsome as Harry Regan, did in a 24-hour-old beard.

"Sit down, Regan."

Handsome sat gingerly on the edge of a chair.

"Well, you better begin, Regan."

Handsome swallowed: "I smacked Harper."

"Why?"

"He's been spying on me."

"That's strange." The Old Man's voice was barbed. "Why send he spy on you?"

Handsome did not answer.

"Look here, Regan. Get this straight. You represent a lot of my money. You're what I hoped was going to be a valuable property. Priceless, I might say. I've sunk a lot of dough in you in the last three years. I'm not going to have it all cut a struggle."

"SHE'S MY GIRL"

There was a dead silence. Handsome fumbled for words. Then he began his story. The Old Man was easy to talk to, but he knew all the answers.

"All right, Regan. I understand. But what about this character?" And he referred.

"She isn't just a tramp. Mr. Crisp. She's not. She was just in my room to see why I didn't start for the park. I'm going to marry her. She's swell." Handsome's earnestness was touching.

"She brought me good luck. I know I'm going to be all right now. I'll see I can pitch rings around those guys. Give me the chance."

Crisp had his answer.

"Look, Regan, when you're ready I'll have up to you. You know of course I've got to fine you. Twenty-five dollars. And don't go around sporting cuts on the face. It is bad for team spirit. Besides you might lose your pitching hand."

Crisp rocked emphatically. Tears ad.

Handsome stared at Crisp. "You're not going to cut me."

No, go on. You have my word."

LIKE A CHARM

Handsome fled. His heart sang. As he rushed through the outer office, he threw a kiss at the delighted Miss Worden.

As the pitcher made good his boast next Wish Malone shook his head in Crisp's office. "Well," he asked anxiously.

"Come in, you old fox. I've kept you like a charm." Crisp was beaming. He says he's going to marry the girl, but all this hard on the guy."

"Of course not. She's in love with him, though she doesn't know it herself yet."

"All right. Practice Tuesday, too, will."

Handsome swept into batting practice as though nothing had happened. Nobody spoke to him. It wasn't until they went back to the showers before the game that Larry went over to Harper. The room quieted down instantly. Everyone wanted to hear.

"I want to apologize, Harper. I lost my temper."

Handsome held out his hand. It was a complete apology and he seemed sincere about it.

Harper a little nonplussed at the size of the audience muttered something. Then he managed: "I can't get it in for you, kid. It looks. I've just got my orders." They shook hands.

Handsome had done the day after he went back to his room and continued dressing.

"Well, well, well!" Dusty Lee shook his head. "I never thought I'd see that cocky rookie come to time like that."

He isn't fired. For what I'm sorry," remarked Tom Marvin.

"HANDSOME" SMACKS "Tattling Tony" Harper, assistant coach, for telling the players about the morning's hotel scene involving the flaming "Mike."

Skirts Edging Up Again

WITH SKIRTS edging up toward the knees legs are once more in the public eye. Let us hope they don't shrink to the abbreviated fullness worn in the flapper age. A safe length is the largest part of the calf of the leg. A shorter length throws the mature silhouette out of balance.

More time is taken now in selecting hosiery. The beauty of the legs depends to a large extent upon the fabric of the hose and the color. Chiffons make for sensibleness.

Peri-bubble shes are too the fancy things. Don't trust them tonight my children. The weight of the stocking should be called down to the ankle. Press at your pleasure and confusion. Then unroll the stocking. Fold over at the top so there will be a double thickness. Runs won't bother you then.

Never rub them on the washboard. Make a rich suds, squeeze them in hands, rinse in tepid water.

Wedding Guest Attire

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been invited to an afternoon wedding. The bride will be wearing a long dress and veil and the groom a business suit. Would a long dress with sleeves be correct or should street-length dress be worn? Will you kindly advise me as to the correct dress for a formal afternoon wedding, for both ladies and gentlemen? G.

For an afternoon wedding you should wear a street length dress. A woman guest at an afternoon wedding, whether the wedding is formal or informal wears her best looking day clothes, tailored suit, skirt as much as possible for the formal side the type for instance she would wear to an luncheon party or to a tea of some personality. A man guest at an informal wedding wears a dark business suit. At a formal wedding a man guest if he is to formal as to own formal day clothes wears cutaway coat, dark striped trousers and appropriate accessories. Otherwise, he wears a dark business suit.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

EXCLUSIVE:

Former chairman of the Republican state committee, and unsuccessful candidate against James M. Curley in 1934 for the highest office in the state, Gaspar G. Bacon of Jamaica Plain will announce his candidacy Monday for governor in the Republican primaries . . . Entry of Bacon in the Republican joust for votes insures the hottest Republican primary fight in years . . .

GEORGE HOLLAND

Political observers are of the opinion that the Bacon candidacy will take many votes from Lawrence Saltonstall and in this way give substance to the campaign of Richard Whitcomb, recognized efficiency expert for the city of Boston . . . Whitcomb is reported as having been pledged very strong financial support from Boston banking circles and the possibility of a Whitcomb-Hurley coalition may now be discounted as a probability . . .

Chatter:

Sam H. Harris, the famous theatrical producer who presented this year's Critics' Circle prize play, "Of Mice and Men" as well as the political satire, "I'd Rather Be Right," will be one of the prominent New Yorkers viewing the War Admiral-Sea Biscuit-Flying Scott clash Wednesday at Suffolk Downs.

For the seventh consecutive year Boston Detectives Benny Goodman and William Goldston attended the Harvard Commencement exercises . . . They are members of the so-called "radical squad" . . . For seven years they have mingled with the Commencement Day throng as a gesture of protection from the Boston department—and without charge to Cambridge . . .

Once Over Lightly:

The Eire newspaper, The Irish Independent, of June 13, reports that City Councillor Clement A. Norton of Boston was a speaker at a pre-election rally June 12 at Dunmanway, County Cork . . . The Boston councillor took the stump for Eamon De Valera and described him as the man who has done the most for Ireland in the eventful past 25 years . . .

This column's "hunch" that James M. Curley will be a candidate for governor may prove to be the same sort of "hunch" which predicted victory for Max Schmeling . . . Sources close to Curley say that he will not be a candidate unless Lieutenant-Governor Kelly gets out of the fight, which will not happen . . . Frank M. Lean, the young reporter, couldn't believe his eyes when he saw the lieutenant-governor boarding a bus at Adams square, Dorchester, with a state automobile at his disposal . . .

The brevity of the Big Fight will cut down the gross of the fight pictures by many, many thousands of dollars

The odds relayed to Boston bookmakers from Jersey an hour before Louis and Schmeling stepped in the ring were 200 to 65, Louis favored . . . And a close shopper with a bundle of Schmeling money could have had 4 to 1 . . . As a matter of record, one Boston gambler took the short end of a small wager at just that price.

Summer prices and rates go in effect this week-end at the Cape Cod resorts . . . Tom Weatherly, the New York producer, wrote a letter to the editor of the Mansfield Hills Playhouse . . . Lastly had the management . . . a news item . . . than a telegram came along re . . . the Haverhill . . . and . . . The producer had received . . . a nickel magazine for the piece . . .

Meantime, the Boston drama editors are curious about the "gorgeous red-head, with the milk-white Russian wolfhound" whom Weaver, identified as the "moneyed lady" of the Marshland enterprise . . . The odds on the Red Sox to win the pennant have narrowed to four to one although Jack Conway reports from New York that a professional betting man took two to one without a murmur . . . That $40 to $5 secured by the department of Aard, is beginning to resemble a already investment.

Review of Schmeling's Towel-Tossing Episode

THE MORE ONE DELIBERATES ON THAT towel-throwing episode while Max Schmeling was wallowing on the floor at the Yankee Stadium, the more puzzling it becomes to anyone who studied the internal workings of the German's training camp and his relation to his associates.

Austen Lake

Oddly enough, "Doc" Casey, Max's head second who was imported a few days before the fight for his unique knack in healing cuts, confessed after the bout that he had restrained Max Machon from heaving the token on two earlier occasions before he finally did let fly. Casey said Machon jumped up on the rungs of the ring ladder after the first knockdown and attempted to toss the towel. Casey grabbed his arm. Again, as Schmeling collapsed for the second time, Machon tried to chuck his Turkish flag. In fact, Casey, who was in Schmeling's corner two years ago when he blasted Louis into a delirious hulk, said he was busier watching Machon than he was his Pomeranian employer.

Another curious thing. As Schmeling was lying on a rubbing table, with Machon and a little band of German reporters announcing vociferously that they had been foully dealt with, Casey, a tall, bald and rugged man, stood clucking his tongue a little distance away. "I've tried to stop those fellows from that," he said in dismay. "There was no foul."

Schmeling Reserved Authority

WHAT CONFUSES FIGHT SCHOLARS who were at Schmeling's camp in Speculator, is that Machon is merely a companion to Schmeling, who makes his own decisions arbitrarily in the smallest details. At Speculator, as at Napanoch two years ago, the fighter set his own schedules. He determined his training menu. He issued orders to his way-enthusiastic with the guttural gusto of an imperial prince. Inevitable answer to all inquiries was, "I vill ask Master Schmeling. If he wanted to spar, he sparred. If he wanted to loaf, which was often, he loafed. In fact not an ounce of initiative in his training camp emanated from other than Maxie.

So, why did the meek and well-disciplined Machon make three attempts to heave that towel in two minutes of combat, unless it was predetermined with the full consent of his boss if conditions looked unbearable. It is purely conjecture, yet I cannot vision the reticent, almost timid little trainer, with his punctilio yes-habits as we have seen them over the years, leaping up on the fire-step to fling out the mercy banner, unless the possibility of the situation was outlined beforehand.

BEAR IN MIND THAT MACHON HAD no way of knowing about chipped vertebrae or paralysis when he did it. He could see, of course, that Max was taking a terrific dose. But there was no chance to diagnose injury or locate the seat of misery. Indeed, by some stretch of imagination, Max might have risen like Louis rose in '36, sock-silly and wobbly, to survive the round and come out of his fog—as far as Machon knew at the instant.

Mind you I don't say, as it turned out, that Machon didn't do the right thing. I am merely pointing out that hasten at two minutes such a [illegible] Schmeeing's party could, as Referee Donovan [illegible] top of Louis with Max was hanging back turned over the ropes [illegible] the ring before [illegible]

Yet, nobody [illegible] among the experts, from [illegible] reporters present [illegible] eight rows nearest ringside who saw [illegible] Louis' face [illegible] seeing such a [illegible] And [illegible] hospital report that a fracture of the [illegible] of the back. More Million Dollar Gates

THE FACTS, SUBSTANTIATED BY NEWS pictures, show that the only time Max did turn his back completely was after a minute of fighting when, dazed by successive jolts to the head, he looped his right arm over the ropes and gazed bewildered toward the grand stand. He was badly fogged and as he stood Donovan moved in with outstretched arms to block Louis, who held his fire until Schmeling slowly swivelled to a profile position.

[illegible] rules of the prize ring [illegible] Louis had perfect right to spin Schmeling around [illegible] Yes! But the original purpose of [illegible] was to inflict harm and the striking is stopped [illegible] deem the victim in danger of permanent [illegible] through the fighter's skin be white, black or [illegible] better brute.

After he had been cured of what ailed him, Max stood in his corner for some moments before crawling down the ladder on his own legs and up the aisle between gaping crowds. One of his arms was draped over Casey's shoulder and Machon propped him under the other. But there was no evidence of paralysis, or any more than nausea from eating too much leather. Indeed, consensus is, that

Leo "Butch" Richardson, who played shortstop for Dartmouth back in the days of Buck Reeve, Tom Keady, Ralph Graze and Ernest Morton, is back home for his 30th reason. "Butch" has been in Los Angeles for about twenty years. His brother Sam came from South Africa for his class reunion. The Richardsons were in a bible with George Knuck Kenney, the Big Green's silent captain of the '04 eleven and Dan Watson, well known yachtsman.

During the recent Metacomet Invitation, Ray Linehan and Sam Neild, Jr., the winners, were 31 under par for [illegible] holes. The elimination of caddies from amateur competition by the United States Golf Association ruined the Rhode Island Junior championship. Usually about 80 youngsters entered that event. Charlie Hartley, sec. of the R. I. State A. A., predicts that less than 25 will participate this year . . . Despite the fact that the age limit has been raised to 21, there are only five good junior golfers in Little Rhody, Sam Neild, Jr., Bud Patterson, Patrick O'Neil Hayes, Frank Herring Ion and Joe Sherry . . . Lose 'Angel' Baer Bout Has Little Gate Appeal

Max Machon, trainer, left, and Joe Jacobs, U. S. manager of Max Schmeling, downcast as they leave hospital after visiting their ex-breadwinner.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP) — Max Schmeling is in a hospital across the street from Madison Square Garden—the same one in which Ernie Schaaf died after a clubbing by Primo Carnera and with the passing of the German as an active threat to the heavyweight throne the fight game promptly has had a sort of dead spell.

Joe Louis Talks Of Kayo Victory | Bomber at Peak, Declares Donovan

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK, June 24—It was the day after the Louis one round knockout of Max Schmeling, and I went to Mike Jacobs' Hippodrome . . . Joe Louis was being photographed by a million or so cameramen, and stated he would answer any questions fired at him by the reporters.

Mr. Boston

"I hit Max Baer much harder than I did Max Schmeling," said Louis . . . "I thought my first left hook to the jaw did the job on the German . . . He didn't know where he was after that blow landed . . . I don't intend to fight Schmeling again . . . I have washed him off my book . . . Baer? . . . For the Milk Fund and Mike Jacobs in September . . . Maybe! . . . What about Tommy Farr? . . . Tommy is all right . . . In time I'll give him another match, and this time I shall knock him out

"I want to get away from all this for a time and play baseball and eat ice cream . . . Nobody can now dispute the fact I am a real champion . . . When I knocked out Jimmy Braddock, there were people who said Schmeling could stop me . . . I proved they were wrong . . . I want to keep fighting frequently . . . It is the only way to keep in condition."

Arthur Donovan, referee of the Louis-Schmeling bout, stepped into the picture

"Louis was at his peak as he knocked out Schmeling," said Donovan . . . "I don't think Joe will ever reach the same heights again . . . He wanted to knock Schmeling out and avenge the knockout of two years ago . . . I never saw a fighter toss punches as fast as Louis did . . . The champion gets terrific power behind his left hand blows, while his right hand sock is dynamite . . . I don't think there is a heavyweight around today who can conquer Louis . . . Inactivity will do more to beat Louis as champion than anything else."

Joe Gould Asks Bout for Farr

JOE GOULD stepped into the picture to ask a Louis bout for Tommy Farr

"Why should Max Baer be given another match with Louis?" demanded Gould . . . "Didn't Baer quit to Louis the last time they met? . . . Farr gave Louis plenty of trouble last Fall and would defeat the champion in a return bout."

Gould called upon Jimmy Braddock to support his statement

"Farr is a good fighter," said Braddock . . . "Louis stopped Schmeling because he fought like I told him to . . . No fancy boxing . . . Just old fashioned fighting . . . Old fighters like Schmeling cannot stand up before a youngster like Louis who rains leather at them . . . It will be a long time before anybody licks Louis."

Mike Jacobs came in singing . . . The words were about something being down Mike's alley . . . I think he was referring to Louis, whom he piloted to the world's championship . . . Sure, John Roxborough and Julian Black are the champion's managers, but it was Jacobs who jacked the spots and made the matches

Slow Movies Show Two Kidney Punches

I LEFT Louis and the rest of the gang to see the movies of the Louis-Schmeling bout . . . The slow movies were the most interesting part of the show . . . They depicted Louis scoring with two terrific right hand punches to the kidneys as the German was beaten back against the ropes . . . They also showed Louis landing terrific right hand punches to the jaw . . . It was my opinion that the right hand socks to the jaw did the real damage to Schmeling . . . Hype Igoe remarked that the Jack Dempsey of the Jess Willard fight at Toledo and the Louis of the Schmeling match would have put up a terrific fight . . . with the winner in doubt.

The slow moving pictures show how helpless Schmeling was when battered against the ropes before the first knockdown . . . Louis hit the German almost at will . . . Joe then turned Max half way around with a punch to the jaw and Schmeling looked out toward the crowd . . . Referee Donovan used good judgment when he waved Louis back, and gave Schmeling a chance to recover his bearings and turn around . . . When Schmeling got up after the first knockdown Louis walked in and without any windup belted him on the chin with a right hand punch . . . Down Schmeling went for the second time . . . Max was so confused he got up without taking a count, and was tipped over for the final knockdown

I never saw a heavyweight toss punches faster than did Louis . . . Louis is one of those exceptional heavyweights who can hit equally well with both hands

Schmeling's spine injury must have come from the awkwardness of his falls rather than any blow

So what? So simply that Schmeling was drowned by a flood of punches and an unprejudiced eyes was beaten fairly and viciously by the man he knocked out 24 months ago. His claim of foul does him no credit, for the world recalls that he won his title from Sharkey while on the floor through his manager's presence of mind of yelling "stay down" while he was using in apparent perfect health. flashed a spurt that carried the Blue into a quarter-length lead at the submarine base, the halfway point. They held this position for another half mile out then the Harvard stroke, William S. Rowe II, of Cincinnati, sent the boat up and the Crimson first drew level and then moved to the front.

Down through the last quarter mile Harvard slowly kept increasing its lead until it held a full length advantage as the crimson crossed the line.

The Crimson freshmen eight crew also in the two-mile test gained a convincing lead in the first few minutes of the race. Yale also undefeated during the season made one challenge in the final three-quarters of a mile, picked up a half length but could not seriously threaten the winners.

Crimson Out For Third Straight

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 24 (INS)—Whenever Yale meets Harvard it's a scrap. But when an exceptional Yale crew which has never been beaten meets a great Harvard eight which has never tasted any boats wash in five races, it is a rare battle of major importance.

The Blue rows the Crimson again this evening, and never has the interest been more keen nor the excitement more tense.

Paced by a giant of a stroke named John Spike Chace, Yale crew coach will attempt to make it three straight victories over Harvard in the renewal of an athletic rivalry which dates back more than three quarters of a century before the Civil War between the American states.

"Spike" Chace

Promptly at 6:15 the two finely trained crews are scheduled to get away on a flowing tide for the long 4 mile grind. The freshman and junior varsity events were to be rowed in the morning.

Coach Tom Bolles, lately imported from that rowing coach foundry at the University of Washington, was a hopeful omen when his combination beat distanced Yale by three lengths.

Harvard is given an edge in the varsity because of Chace's exceptional ability, but Yale has a strong eight which is expected to win.

Schmeling Brave Man--Joe Louis

CHICAGO, June 24 (AP)—Joe Louis, world's heavyweight champion, arrived today and began mapping a program of relaxation he said probably would include a trip to Europe about July 1.

Louis posed for pictures at the railroad station and was driven through a steady rain to his South side apartment. He was accompanied by Mrs. Louis and Carl Nelson, who carries the title of Louis bodyguard.

In his only comment on Wednesday night's fight which sent challenger Max Schmeling down in the first round and later to a hospital, Louis said, "Max is a brave fighter."

He plans to leave for Detroit Saturday or Sunday. Interested in horses he will assist in sponsoring a horse show in Detroit, then return within three or four days to Chicago.

Pirates Here Tomorrow

By WALTER KILEY

The Bees have a holiday today before taking on the Pirates a team of sterling fortune. No one liked in many questions to make a serious person in the race.

Frankie Frisch whose St. Louis Cardinals turned in a sock performance here despite endeavoring the Bees in the last part of game. No one who figures to Pirates as real darkhorses.

Boston Girl Wins Abroad

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 24 (AP) — Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, American Wightman Cup team member from Boston, moved into the fourth round of the all-England tennis championships today with a 6-1, 6-0 defeat of Miss G. M. Southwell of England.

Owen Anderson, 18-year-old U. C. L. A. player from Los Angeles who put up a great battle before losing to Ferenc Puncec of Yugoslavia, teamed with Rita Jarvis of England to win their first round mixed doubles match. They defeated Kay Stammers, English southpaw, and Kho Sin Kie of China, 6-2, 5-7, 9-7.

Mrs. Fabyan merely used Miss Southwell as a practice foil for her droplshots. The American star ran out the match in 18 minutes.

Dorothy Andrus of New York and her French partner, Sylvia Henrotin, advanced to the third round of the women's doubles by disposing of C. M. Burrows and Miss R. J. M. Smith of England, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2.

Dorothy May Bundy, youthful star from Santa Monica, Cal., moved into the fourth round of the women's singles by defeating Joan Saunders of England, 6—4, 6—2.

Playing for the first time on the center court, the daughter of May Sutton Bundy dropped the first three games of the opening set. She came back to win the fourth and fifth with the loss of only one point. The English girl captured the sixth before Miss Bundy reeled off four in a row. The American girl commanded the play all the way in the second set.

BUDGE, MAKO WIN

Don Budge and Gene Mako, No. 1 seeded doubles team from California, lost only one game in taking the measure of M. Csikos, Hungary, and Hans Kleinschroth, Germany, 6—0, 6—1, 6—0 in a second round match. The Americans took seven straight games before dropping their only game. Budge, definitely over his sore throat, was in fine form.

Dorothy Andrus of New York teamed with Franz Kukuljevic, Yugoslavian ace, to defeat W. T. Anderson and Miss R. J. M. Smith of England, 6—3, 6—2, in the second round of the mixed doubles.

MEN'S SINGLES

Ronald Shayes, England, defeated G. F. Godsell, England, 2—6, 6—3, 6—4, 6—4.

H. W. (Bunny) Austin, England, defeated J. S. Cooery, England, 6—1, 6—1, 6—3.

Ferenc Puncec, Yugoslavia, defeated J. S. Olliff, England, 6—3, 6—3, 6—0.

Max Wilmer, Switzerland, defeated Dimitri Mitic, Yugoslavia, 3—6, 8—2, 7—5, 1—6, 6—2.

WOMEN'S SINGLES

Dorothy May Bundy, Santa Monica, Cal., defeated Joan Saunders, England, 6—4, 6—2.

MIXED DOUBLES

Fr. z Kukuljevic, Yugoslavia, and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus, New York, defeated W. T. Anderson and Miss R. J. M. Smith, England, 6—3, 6—2.

MEN'S DOUBLES

Midget Auto Races Tonight

The midget auto race drivers bounce back into action tonight at the Riverside Park track in Medford in the second of a series of race programs on the recently built cinder track.

Highlighting the meeting will be the wind-up event, 20 laps of the quarter-mile track, in which Bob Miner, New England champion and Bob King, winner of last week's race, will match speed.

Miner did a complete somersault in his car last Friday night when he slid off a corner, struck a fence and turned completely over. He had been travelling so fast that he landed on four wheels, heading the correct way.

King is leading the league in points now and seems headed for a top rating in the final standings.

Time trials will start at 7:15 p. m. with the racing events scheduled for 8:15 p. m.

Doesn't Happen Often

FEW ARE THE ball players who can say that they have hit Johnny "No-Hit" Vander Meer this season, but here is Jimmy Ripple of the Giants lacing out a safe single in a game at the Polo Grounds. Vandy was knocked out of the box in the eighth inning, but received credit for a victory as his Reds scored more runs than the Giants.

New Stance Averill's Secret

CLEVELAND, June 24 (AP)—Why is Earl Averill—the guy you saw buried in the American League batting lists last year—topping both leagues at a dizzy .390 clip?

"You're allowed three swings and I'm taking every one," the Cleveland Indians' 35-year-old center fielder declared today. "I'm swinging at anything that looks good enough to hit.

"You think you're hitting because you've found the stance, but you don't know. But that's where it comes—in getting the right stance."

MISSED .300 GROUP

The pride of little Snohomish, Wash., refused, however, to even admit he'd wind up in the select .300 list. Last year he dropped to .299, but his lifetime average of .322 is one of the best in the business.

"I hope to keep up my pace, but you don't know. You may get in a rut, and when you do you drop awfully fast."

Averill, now in his tenth year in the league leaders' middle pasture, has been one of the main reasons the Indians are clicking so well and refusing to fold up at mid-season.

USES 40-OUNCE BAT

He swings from the left side a narrow-handled, 40-ounce bat, and believes the well-polished ash is as heavy as is used by any other American League player. There was a time when he swung a 44-ounce club.

"I don't hit like other players," he explained. "I don't buggy whip at the ball, I sweep at it."

Averill said all pitchers are "tough" to hit, then became more explicit:

"The toughest pitcher you can face is the one you've never seen before; you don't know what he's got and you do know what the others throw."

Fenske Seeks Vindication

EVANSTON, Ill., June 24 (AP)—The Pacific Coast's college trackmen, powered by Southern California's mighty Trojans, remained odds on favorites today for their second intersectional clash tomorrow with stars of the Big Ten, but it meant little to Wisconsin's Chuck Fenske.

Fenske was dethroned as the nation's premier collegiate mile runner in the national collegiate meet at Minneapolis last week and by one of the coast stars, Louis Zamperini of Southern California. Since then the Badger star has ignored all else in concentrating on redeeming himself tomorrow.

Killed Objecting To Louis' Victory

MEXICO CITY, June 24 (INS)—Armando Ramos, a youth of 20, lay dead today—because he objected to Max Schmeling's defeat by Joe Louis.

Ramos was standing outside a grocery store on the night of the fight, listening to a radio description of the proceedings. When the knockout was announced, he yelled, "Death to Joe Louis!"

An unknown assailant immediately knocked him down and stabbed him 20 times before escaping. Some 30 hours later Ramos died.

Dawson's Kidney Blow Famous

By HYPE IGOE

NEW YORK, June 24 (INS)—In the dear old long ago, there was a fellow fighting around San Francisco rings named George Dawson, who was a fiend in his use of a blow they called the "Dawson kidney punch."

He came from Australia, if I remember rightly, and his mode of attack was to hold with one hand and pound down on a man's kidneys with whichever fist happened to be free.

He was a demon at it and fighters began to take to the tall timbers whenever some matchmaker said:

"Now Mister Glutz, a nice finish fight between yourself and George Dawson would fill our California athletic club."

PUNCH WAS BARRED

There came a time when they barred the "kidney punch." Danny Needham used it after Dawson, and in later years the unfortunate Ad Wolgast became a terror with it. It was around his time they barred the punch entirely, as they banned the "LaBlanche swing" or "pivot blow" years before.

The other night Joe Louis hit Max Schmeling such a terrific bop in the left short ribs, with his right hand that Max's mouth flew open and he let out the first scream, womanish in its shrillness, ever this writer heard come from a fighter at a ringside in over 40 years of chronicling.

MOVIES TELL STORY

A drive to the stomach with a left hook, prior to that right hand punch, had turned Max around as Joe's right hand went through back of Max's extended left arm. Max was actually turning sidewise into Joe. The punch, as the preview of the moving pictures disclosed, landed a little below Max's short ribs. It wasn't anything like a "kidney blow," ad as Arthur Donovan, the referee, said later:

"It was a perfectly legitimate punch, delivered in the orthodox way, and any hint at foul is unfair to both Louis and myself."

The pictures will always be Joe's and Arthur's complete exoneration of any laxity.

NEVER A FOUL FIGHTER

Joe Louis never has been a foul fighter. He didn't "foul" Max as was first charged and, seeing the futility of such a silly and unsportsmanlike claim, the smart, fast-thinking German forgot his hurts long enough to retract any such claim or any such intended.

"Minor Foul" rule No. 5 in the book issued by the New York commission states that it is a foul to deliberately aim for a man's kidneys.

Bill Brown said today that he intended to ask his associates to amend that rule so that it will read "Hitting a man over the kidneys with one arm free will not be permitted."

Bob Seeds

Bought by Giants

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—The New York Giants today purchased outfielder Bob Seeds from the Newark club of the International League, a Yankee "farm." The deal was a straight cash transaction with no purchase price announced.

This season Seeds has hit .333 for 58 games, including 28 home runs and 93 runs batted in to lead the league in both divisions.

Lynn Nelson Big Noise In A's Camp

By Associated Press.

Those experts who gave Connie Mack's Athletics the slightest consideration this spring decided early and unanimously that as a pitcher Lynn Nelson was a good ex-wrestler.

They figured that a fellow who won only four games and lost nine for the earned average just short of telephone number proportions last season would do much better entertaining the folks in the Hinterland with toeholds and airplane spins than boring 'em with his "boom boom" balls at Shibe Park.

In fact, Mr. Mack thought so little of him that he didn't give him a starting assignment until May 8, but that Sunday he whipped the Tigers in ten innings.

There isn't a more consistent working elbower in the business this season than the husky right-hander from Kansas City. He's started ten games and has finished every one.

WON EIGHT GAMES

In those ten starts he's won eight, seven of them in a row, lost one and tied one, and has an earned-run average just over three per game. He has beaten every club in the American League except the Washington Senators and Boston Red Sox, and he hasn't had a chance to face them yet.

He's whipped the pace-setting Cleveland Indians and the Detroit Tigers twice each, and only the Tigers hold a decision over him.

Yesterday he tangled with the St. Louis Browns and pitched a four-hitter for a 7-1 decision. Swingin' Sammy Chapman helped him along by clouting the ninth homer of his young major league career. This left the A's just three games short of fourth place, where the Washington Senators and Detroit Tigers are in a virtual tie.

ner. His pulse and temperature are normal."

Joe Jacobs, manager of the stricken German challenger, was in a high dither today because Hospital Superintendent A. A. Jaller refused to give him X-ray photographs of Schmeling's injuries so pictures of them could be taken for the press. He wanted all the world to see the nature of the injuries. For a spell Jacobs even threatened to remove Schmeling to another hospital.

Dr. Brennan explained the exact nature of Schmeling's injuries, as follows:

"Schmeling is suffering from longitudinal fracture through the third lumbar vertebra of the left side that has produced a blood clot over the broken fragments.

"However, the fragments are in good condition so there will be no necessity for setting the fracture."

Reports that Schmeling's movie actress wife, Anny Ondra, will come to America to care for her husband were termed false by Max's American manager, Joe Jacobs.

"Schmeling talked to her and told her to wait in Berlin until he arrived on the Bremen which leaves here July 2," Jacobs stated.

Maxie's Wife Weeps; Says, 'It's Terrible'

BERLIN, June 24 (AP)—Anny Ondra burst into tears when she heard that her husband, Germany's boxing hope, was in a New York hospital with a back injury suffered in his crushing one-round knockout by Joe Louis Wednesday night.

"It's terrible that punches like that are permitted," she exclaimed. "I didn't know that they were allowed.

"I don't think this is sport any longer but, rather, a fight for life. Thank God his spine isn't injured and he will not be lamed permanently."

Reichsfuehrer Hitler, one of the Black Uhlan's" millions of German admirers, sent a message of sympathy to Miss Ondra, and Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels sent flowers.

RURAL CRIER TOPS

By MATTHEW KEANEY

BEST BET—RURAL CRIER, 9TH

FIRST RACE—FUTURITY

First Half Daily Double
GLENFIELD—BRUISER—WHITE CROW
PP Dog	Wt.	Owner	Odds
8 Glenfield	62	W. B. Hall	5-1
7 Brainey	64	Cedar Pt. Ken.	4-1
2 White Crow	59	O. and B. Ken.	5-1
3 Bad Ollie	48½	E. Kirkpatrick	3-1
1 Bull Cat	59	Spencer	6-1
6 Carroll Friend	65	Tom Baird	6-1
4 Mike Stats	67½	Paul Boone	8-1
5 Boom Town	61	Jess Williams	8-1

GLENFIELD'S last was somewhat improved and, with any sort of break, it should win tonight. BRUISER has enough foot to be close. WHITE CROW is entitled to what is left.

SECOND RACE—FUTURITY

Second Half Daily Double
TIPOVER—MARCH PAST—LADY DETOUR
1 Tipover	60	Cedar Pt. Ken.	3-1
2 March Past	63	Pat Connors	4-1
3 Lady Detour	62	O. and B. Ken.	5-1
7 Gallant Mick	72	M. J. Gavan	5-1
5 Schoolboy	64	John Highhouse	8-1
4 Speedy Lad	63	E. Rhine	8-1
6 Canoe	62	Paul Boone	8-1
8 Pike Limited	60	A. L. Smart	8-1

The inside posting gives TIPOVER the edge here with MARCH PAST the one to beat. LADY DETOUR should get up for the balance.

THIRD RACE—5-16THS MILE

WHITE TEMPEST—COCO LU—MUZZY
1 White Tempest	67½	O. Dahlberg	3-1
2 Coco Lu	51	Ken Neal, Jr.	4-1
4 Muzzy	72	Tom Baird	5-1
3 Claudie	53	A. L. Smart	6-1
7 Crack Up	57	F. L. Brants	6-1
5 Red Rajah	65	W. B. Hall	8-1
6 Tarzan Breeze	70	Fred Palermo	8-1

Just A Fire Up 59 G. M. Rogers 10-1

In its best, WHITE TEMPEST raced from an outside position but on the rail tonight it figures best. COCO LU could take all of it. MUZZY is worth watching.

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY

A BETTER WARRIOR—LADY ZONA—OLLAR CAREER
1 A Better War'r	63	M. J. Gavan	5-1
4 Lady Zona	57	O. and B. Ken.	4-1
5 Ollar Career	55	Tom Baird	5-1
2 Narrow Mahout	61	Henry Bagwell	5-1
7 Upper Class	75	Art Wilson	8-1
8 Red Shamrock	64	Fred Palermo	4-1
3 Snow Down	51	F. L. Brants	8-1
6 Joe DiMag	61	O. Dahlberg	8-1

Joe Gavan's importation should make every post a winning one with LADY ZONA furnishing most of the contention. OLLAR CAREER for the balance.

FIFTH RACE—5-16THS MILE

SILVER DARLING—CHARLOTTE CARESS—KNEADER
1 Silver Darling	57	J. L. Ayotte	3-1
6 Charlotte Caress	55	C. A. Rhodes	4-1
3 Kneader	58	M. J. Gavan	5-1
5 Cap Rare	59	Frobe Spencer	5-1
4 Side Wheeler	61	E. Rhine	6-1
2 Doctor Bundy	68	Ken Neal, Jr.	8-1
7 Patsy Red	57	F. L. Brants	8-1
8 Manna	51	Tom Baird	8-1

SILVER DARLING drops a couple of notches and from the inside box should greet the judge. CHARLOTTE CARESS will fancy an outside posting more and be close. KNEADER for the balance.

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY

CHINKO—ANDREW MEADOWS—DUSTY WAR
6 Chinko	74	Paul Boone	3-1
1 Andrew M'dows	69	O. and B. Ken	3-1
2 Dusty War	66	Fred Street	4-1
5 Courtney Caress	70	C. A. Rhodes	4-1
3 Jewel Ann	57	Robert Bryant	5-1
4 London Market	71	E. Kirkpatrick	6-1
7 The Tangler	67	M. J. Gavan	8-1
8 Crap Gambler	72	W. T. Dubuet	8-1

CHINKO'S last was a rattling fine second. Off that race it should improve enough to win. Any mistake would serve to the benefit of ANDREW MEADOWS. DUSTY WAR should save third.

SEVENTH RACE—5-16THS MILE

TOP TRAFFIC—GOVERNMENT PAY—CARHAN'S EXPRESS
3 Top Traffic	42	Frank Lane	3-1
5 Government Pay	67	E. Kirkpatrick	4-1
4 Carhan's Expr's	81	W. B. Hall	4-1
6 Ben's Shadow	80	M. J. Gavan	5-1
8 Brandy Joe	85	Fred Palermo	8-1
2 Kimo	50	John Highhouse	8-1
7 Thelma II	85	Jess Williams	8-1
9 Odessa Girl	55	J. L. Ayotte	8-1

The top one here likes the rail. As it breaks fast, it should get it and win. GOVERNMENT PAY the main threat. CARHAN'S EXPRESS could upset.

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY

GUEST ARTIST—TORMENTED—STORMY BREEZE
3 Guest Artist	82½	M. C. Sparks	3-2
1 Tormented	62½	L. Kirkpatrick	3-1
2 Stormy Breeze	73	G. Lippold, Jr.	3-1
5 Cavalier Caress	68	C. A. Rhodes	4-1
6 Side Wind	73	Jess Williams	5-1
8 Standard Cab	75	J. L. Ayotte	6-1
4 Princess Ann	58	Cedar Pt. Ken.	8-1
7 Ashton	69	Paul Boone	8-1

This youngster has shown real hot box capability and should win but only after a fight right from TORMENTED. STORMY BREEZE could take all of it.

NINTH RACE—FUTURITY

RURAL CRIER—MUTTON BROTH—COURT CRITIC
8 Rural Crier	70	M. C. Sparks	3-2
1 Mutton Broth	66	J. L. Ayotte	3-1
3 Court Critic	68	Art Wilson	7-2
5 Understudy	64	O. Dahlberg	4-1
6 Muddler	71	K. Stephenson	5-1
9 Cruiser Caress	65	C. A. Rhodes	6-1
2 Paw Down	61	F. L. Brants	6-1
7 Silver Lone	55	G. Lippold, Jr.	8-1

RURAL CRIER likes to run from the outside but and, though MUTTON BROTH be a fast breaker, I believe the sparks' greyhound will continue her string of successes. COURT CRITIC should be in the money.

TENTH RACE—5-16THS MILE

GUESS WHY—CITIZEN'S STATE—CLASSY TRAFFIC
3 Guess Why	63	Forbe Spencer	3-1
2 Citizen's State	67	O. and B. Ken.	4-1

8 Justa Go By	70½	Fred Street	6-1
7 Rip Terror	54	M. C. Sparks	8-1
6 Daffy Roll	62	F. B. Stotz	8-1

Revere Jury Indicts 15 More in Probe

Thirty indictments were handed down by the "blue ribbon" grand jury today naming 15 Revere residents and describing 11 alleged gambling dens in that city.

The new batch of indictments brought to 54 the total number of those named by the Suffolk grand jury in its three weeks' probe of rackets in Revere.

Six of the defendants immediately surrendered to Sergeant Raymond Foley of the state police and to Sergeant Coleman Joyce of the Boston police, both assigned to the grand jury probe.

The six were arraigned before Judge Fosdick, pleaded not guilty and were held in a total of $6000 bail.

They were Pasquale Barrasso, Andrew Cataldo, Hyman Berenson, Arthur Haberlow, Walter H. Hickey and Edward Siegel. Barrasso was held in $3000, Berenson in $1000 and the others in $500 each.

JURY IN RECESS

After submitting the results of its second investigation to Judge Fosdick the jury was recessed under orders to meet again after July 4 to continue its Revere investigation.

In the first batch of 39 indictments returned in ten days ago

Schmeling Is Resting Comfortably

NEW YORK, June 24 (INS)—Max Schmeling, after a restful sleep, awoke at Polyclinic Hospital today to learn that motion pictures of the Joe Louis fight disprove his retracted claim of a foul.

The pictures disclosed that the titleholder threw no illegal punches and that Schmeling, who suffered a fractured transverse process of the third lumbar vertebra, was beaten thoroughly before Louis shot two hard punches to the challenger's left side as Max dangled on the ropes.

A bulletin issued at 10 a. m. read:

"Mr. Schmeling had a very comfortable night. His condition continues in a very satisfactory man-

No Break Yet In Torrid Wave

With the temperature again close to the 90 mark, and thousands seeking relief at the beaches as the heat became more oppressive, Boston's heat wave was in its third day today.

Although the skies were cloudy, the weatherman predicted no letdown in the temperature and said that instead the humidity would be increased.

Harvard Crews Win Two Races

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 24 (AP)—Harvard's oarsmen made a clean sweep of the two morning races of the 76th regatta with Yale on the Thames today, winning the junior varsity test by a length after pulling to an easy two-and-one-half-length victory in the freshman brush.

Both races were rowed downstream over the middle two-miles of the four-mile regatta course.

The opening race, between the freshmen, was a procession for the undefeated Crimson, but the jayvees put on a real battle all the way.

After the Harvard jayvees had grabbed an early lead, Yale
